Retired postal carrier Al Lane sent these shots of Church Street Hardware which he took in 1951 and 1954. The older shot above shows the building with a sloped shed roof, while the later shot shows the modern roofline that Frank Griffin added when the store was modernized. Frank Griffin, Jr. later added an apartment at the right end of the building. The building, which dated from the turn of the century, was leveled last week after a pre-dawn fire destroyed the Wilmington landmark.

DeRoeve is named acting superintendent

by Arlene Surprenant
Peter DeRoeve, Business Manager of Wilmington Public Schools, was named acting superintendent of schools at Monday's meeting of the local school committee. He will fill in on an interim basis and take on the responsibilities of superintendent in addition to his regular duties until a new administrative head is hired to replace outgoing superintendent William Fay. Fay accepted a buyout offer from the committee last Friday.

Brad Jackson made the motion to appoint DeRoeve to the acting position. Chairman Bob Peterson and Phil Fenton were vocal in DeRoeve's support.

"He's shown us the ability," said Peterson. He added later that, "I have the utmost faith in him."

"Every time we've needed him he's come through," said Fenton adding that the administrator is loyal to the system and deserves the position. Both Fenton and Peterson referred to DeRoeve's willingness in August to return from vacation to fill in for Fay, who was on medical leave.

TOWN OF WILMINGTON

NOTICE

The Sewer Finance Advisory Board will conduct a public meeting for the purpose of allowing interested citizens an opportunity to comment regarding various proposals for the financing of sewer projects in the Town of Wilmington at the Town Hall Auditorium on Monday, November 16, 1992 at 7:30 p.m.

George Allan, Chairman
Sewer Financing
Advisory Board

Some members preferred having two administrators in the central office, especially with DeRoeve beginning the budget process for next year. They argued that taking care of the budget was a full time job.

"I really do believe the budget process should be a priority," said Dr. Shirley Callan as she suggested high school principal Paul Fleming for the job. Callan said Fleming is diplomatic and has a strong moral character as evidenced by his handling of the recent hazing incidents.

"I can't think of a finer person to put in than Paul Fleming," she said.

Brad Jackson questioned if her move to name Fleming was payback for loyalty during the hazing crisis.

Peterson maintained that shifting Fleming would cost more both in money and in a grievance if Assistant Principal Ed Woods is made acting principal. Linda McMenimen noted, as another option, the board could hire an outside person for the temporary job. Jackson argued that DeRoeve is familiar with the central office routine since he had been acting superintendent in the past.

The motion to appoint DeRoeve passed four to three, with Callan, McMenimen, and Peg Kane voting in opposition. At McMenimen's suggestion, the board made the vote unanimous.

DeRoeve told the Town Crier the next day, as interim superintendent, he is going to strive to maintain the status quo.

"I'm going to do the best I can to keep everything afloat. We have a good staff. It's a difficult time but most people are giving it that little extra effort," he said.

DeRoeve said he plans to continue Fay's team approach with meetings once a week with school principals, who have already called him to offer their help.

DeRoeve said he will focus much of his attention on next year's budget and preparation for the new year so things will be in order for the new superintendent.

DeRoeve feels fully qualified to step in as acting school head.

"This (job) is nothing more than what I'd be doing anyway. I help the overall school system," he said. DeRoeve has been a math teacher in public and private schools and colleges for 16 years and head of the Wilmington High business department for a short time. He holds a Masters Degree in School Administration and has central office experience, having worked in the central office with the last two superintendents.

Voters set turnout record as town goes for Clinton

Wilmington voters turned out in record numbers on a rainy Tuesday for the election which sent Bill Clinton to the White House.

A total of 9955 people voted, out of 11,703 registered, 85 percent. There were 400 absentee ballots. It was the largest turnout in memory. In 1988, the turnout was 83.5 percent, with 8784 people voting.

Town Clerk Kay Scanlon said she was pleased at how the voting went. At times, there were long waiting lines, especially in the early morning and after working hours until closing. The lines extended into the corridors of the Wildwood School and the Town Hall. She complimented the voters for their demeanor. There was no grumbling, she said.

One voting machine broke down in precinct one, but maintenance workers were able to repair it and return it to service.

As for the outcome, local Democratic chair Anna Visconti called it a "strong message."

Another comment, "They were angry. There were concerns in this election."

Fay finished Friday after buyout by school committee

by Arlene Surprenant
Supt. William Fay made a hasty exit from the school system late Friday afternoon after agreeing to an offer from the Wilmington School Committee. The move surprised many and left the system temporarily without a leader until the appointment Monday night of Business Manager Peter DeRoeve as interim superintendent.

The school board voted six to one in closed session last Wednesday to offer Fay his remaining two months salary if he would agree to leave the system by 4 p.m. Friday. Fay faxed in his agreement just under the wire according to Dr. Shirley Callan, the lone vote against the offer. Callan explained that she, too, felt it was best if Fay left immediately but she had trouble with the $5,000 retirement bonus requested by Fay.

"There are people who could perceive this as a paid vacation. Members had no time to negotiate with him. I still had to know what the bottom line is," said Callan.

According to committee Chairman Bob Peterson, Fay will be receiving regular paychecks every two weeks until December 31, the date his contract expires. Fay reportedly earns $84,000 in annual salary plus $7,000 in benefits. School committee attorney Virginia Tate will be negotiating from now on with Fay over his requested vacation days, sick days, and the retirement bonus. Committeemen had a problem with the benefit figures because they are based on a seven percent increase in salary which Fay verbally agreed to waive in the last year of his contract.

"The committee is not bending on the seven percent," said Peterson. He added right now Fay will only be getting what he's entitled to. Member Peg Kane claimed over $10,000 is at stake if Fay can negotiate the raise.

Callan told this paper the board was against granting Fay an administrative leave because he would then have had the right to a hearing. At the same time, she explained, members felt it was "uncomfortable" having Fay sit through a search for his replacement. In summation she said, "I only hope this lets the committee get back to work."

Peterson agreed Fay's presence was "not conducive to hiring a new superintendent." He explained, "in many ways he was going to do whatever he wanted to. It would have been very difficult to continue with the (search) process. I just think this (move) was worth it," Peterson said.

Other members shared Peterson's views.

"There was too much of an adversarial relationship so why not cut the cord? It's difficult being in a lame duck situation," said newest member Paul Palizzolo.

"It wasn't fair to expose Mr. Fay to that process. It was in the best interest of the school system that we part company immediately," said Brad Jackson.

None of the members interviewed referred to Fay's decision in the recent hazing controversy and what role that might have played in their own decision to ask Fay to leave. Fay could not be reached for comment. When asked if the board may be put in the position of having to pay two superintendents at the same time, Peterson dismissed the possibility saying, "I don't anticipate having anyone here before the first of the year."

Peg Kane looked ahead.

"I think this is an opportunity for the school system to begin again. We have four very strong candidates to choose from who want to come to Wilmington," she said.

Kelley, other staffers plan to retire

Five teachers and other personnel in the Wilmington School System have announced plans to retire in August, 1994.

According to school committee-man Shirley Callan, all of the staff members are taking advantage of a retirement benefit which gives them a $5,000 bonus if they give at least a year's notice of their impending retirement.

The five educators are veteran math teacher and track coach Frank Kelley, high school guidance counselor Roger Breaky, educational assistant Marguerite Daniell, home economics teacher Margery Lampkin, and special education instructor Mary Jane Wilkinson. The school board last week accepted the five letters of impending retirement with regret.

At the polls

With the Wildwood School serving as one of the town's polling sites, students had a prime opportunity to participate in the electioneering that takes place outside the polls. Holding signs for their favorite candidates were Heather Trecartin, Sean Berry and Adam DiPasquale.

Schools use election as learning tool

Clinton and Perot alternated as the leading presidential candidate in the Wilmington schools, but in the Shawsheen School, there was one vote for Potenza and Carlson, running on the custodian ticket. But then, the school janitor always has some popularity.

All the schools held mock elections, some early, others on election day. At the North Intermediate, a telecommunications hookup linked the school with the National Student Election. By 2 p.m. EST, that election had received 30,185 votes, with Clinton taking 38 percent, 11,586 votes; Bush had 32 percent, 9765 votes; and Perot had 28 percent, 8749 votes.

It's YOUR Money

BY JOYCE BRISBOIS
 Certified Public Accountant
YEAR END TAX PLANNING

Now's the time to look at what you made this year, get an idea of taxes due - and consider how to lower that bill.

If you've taken capital gains over the year, weed out your portfolio and take capital losses to offset them. Excess losses can offset up to $3,000 of ordinary income or can be rolled over to the next year.

Contribute as much as you can to your 401(k) and retirement plans.

If you can't afford to pay for charitable contributions or other deductible expenses right now, put them on your credit card. They are deductible when the charge is made, even if you pay for them later. Bunch up deductions where you can by prepaying January state and local taxes or prepaying for doctor bills, etc. Defer income where you can.

If you are subject to the Alternative Minimum Tax, however, the opposite advice is appropriate: you might as well save your disallowed charitable deductions for next year and pile up as much income as you can to be taxed at the AMT's lower rates.

You'll always get good advice from the tax professionals at

Illegal cigarette sales targeted

A new regulation which would put the onus on Wilmington store owners to prevent minors from purchasing cigarettes could go into effect by January 1. The local law, initially, would pertain only to the sale of cigarettes through vending machines.

The Wilmington Board of Health held a public hearing four weeks ago on the issue. At the time, members expressed concern that some businesses were not monitoring the machines. They also heard input pro and con from local residents and other interested parties.

On Monday, board members stated they would be taking a three-step approach to the problem: they would require lock-out devices on the more than 50 machines in town to make owners more responsible for their supervision; for a first offense, the owner would be hit with a $300 fine; for a second offense, the machine would be removed from the premises. All three steps will be spelled out in the new law.

The regulation, said officials, will cover all vending machines in town, including those in convenience stores, gas stations, industries, private clubs, and restaurants. In order to enforce the regulation, officials will ask teenagers to go into various establishments to try to purchase cigarettes.

"We're going to be running periodic checks," promised Chairman Jim Ficociello.

Some of those in attendance at the meeting objected to the proposed regulation. They said it was too harsh since it doesn't allow for any warning and it punishes the owner if an employee fails to comply. They also asked if there was any recourse for the owner once the machine is pulled from the shop.

Ficociello said the consensus of the board seemed to be that once a machine is removed, it's gone for good. However, he added, the board will continue to refine the proposed law.

One resident argued against the lock-out devices. He claimed they were not working in some communities.

"Why are we doing it? This is a cancer-causing drug. You're allowing this to happen," he said.

"If it doesn't work, we'll find out about it," Ficociello replied.

Later the chairman stressed to the audience, "we don't want cigarettes sold to kids in this town."

Eddie Sargent still active at 93

by Capt. Larz Neilson
Edmund "Eddie" Sargent of Woburn Street, Wilmington has, to his credit, the fact that he has made canes, of Baldwin Apple tree branches.

Is there any other person with such a claim?

Eddie cut two branches, 52 years ago from a Baldwin Apple tree on his father's farm. They were very crooked, and the wood was both light and sturdy. Both branches were what is called "suckers" - branches which grow out from the main tree, or from sturdy branches of the tree.

The Baldwin Apple is, of course native to Wilmington.

With just a little cutting Eddie had nice handles, on a cane which was crooked enough to be called a "shillelagh."

He sold one of the canes for one dollar. It is to be doubted if he will ever be paid for the other. He loaned it to Larz, the publisher of the Town Crier, and it does not seem that Larz will ever return it.

Eddie was 93 years old, on November 3. He grew up on a farm his father owned, across the street from his present home. Today it is the home of the Smith Pump Company of Wilmington, and Eddie, as a boy would help his daddy cut ice, in the winter, from the Maple Meadow Brook, which was (and is today) just to the west of that farm.

The ice was stored in a small ice house. It was used in the summer to keep milk cool, etc. etc.

That was before the days of electricity.

His father was born in Vermont, and moved to New Hampshire before moving to Wilmington. Charles Sargent was elected a Wilmington selectman, and re-elected and re-elected.

The Town Crier, on October 28 told the story of Schamiel McIntosh and his blacksmith shop. A lot of persons have commented about that story.

Eddie has more than just a comment to make. His father took him down to the site of Schamiel's blacksmith shop, and let him gaze at the ruins. That fire was quite an event for the people of Wilmington.

When he was about 16 or 17, Eddie got a job with a neighboring farmer, a man named Herb Barrows. It was the kind of job that young men get, when they first start out farming - keep care of cows, rub down the horses, plow the gardens, weed and hoe.

Herb had bought the Jake Manning Nursery, in North Wilmington and he was busy cutting trees on many other sites. Anyone who worked for Herb didn't have much time to loaf.

Cut the trees, make a dam, float the tree trunks downstream. That was the order of the day.

Back about 1915-16 Herb bought a Reo Speed Wagon, and contracted with the town to drive children to school. Eddie was the driver. One trip was to Andover Street, North Wilmington, where the Water department pumping station is today. The second route was up Shawsheen Avenue, and the third was to Silver Lake, where the pharmacy is today.

Eddie would drive the routes each morning, for $1. Then he would go back to work at the nursery. In the afternoon he drove the routes again, for another dollar.

A dollar was a lot of money for a young fellow.

In 1930 Eddie married a young lady named Marjorie Blauvelt. She was from Melrose. He bought a place on Federal Street, and lived there for some years.

In 1946, he moved to his present home on Woburn Street, next door to the house that was the home of his great-grandfather, Asa G. Sheldon. He wrote the book in the Wilmington Library entitled "Wilmington Farmer," recently reprinted under the title "Yankee Drover." It is the best book in the library.

The town of Wilmington started a Water Department in 1926. Eddie Sargent was soon working there, and he continued until his retirement in 1969. He was for many years the superintendent.

At 93 Eddie Sargent is still an active person.

Next time the reader sees a man bicycling down the street he should look sharply. That man might be Eddie Sargent. He hasn't taken his bicycle out this year, but he did ride it last year. The bicycle has a flat tire, but once that is fixed, if there is a warm Sunday, Eddie might take a ride.

His mother was Abbie Sheldon, born in Wilmington back in 1867. She taught school as a young lady, in the East School of Wilmington. Her relatives Myrt and Harry, third cousins, were also employed by Herb Barrows.

Harry was tall and slim. He enjoyed the nickname of "Beanie."

The final interviews of the four candidates for Wilmington Superintendent of Schools will get underway Monday.

Interviews of Dr. Charles Martin, superintendent of Rockport Public Schools, and Geraldine O'Donnell, assistant superintendent of Haverhill Public Schools, will be held Monday beginning at 6:30 p.m. in the Wilmington Public Library. Interviews of Carl Batchelder, assistant superintendent of Whitman-Hanson Regional School District, and Howard Goodrow, superintendent of the Kearsarge Regional School District in New London, New Hampshire, will be held on Thursday, November 12 beginning at 6:30 p.m. in the library. The school committee is expected to name a successor to William Fay on November 12.

Committee members met with the search sub-committee Monday to review site visits to the candidates' places of business and to develop an interview process. During the interviews, each candidate will be allotted one and a half hours to offer opening and closing remarks, ask questions of the school board, and answer up to 14 questions which will be posed by the seven members of the school committee. Questions will cover the following areas: the curriculum, budget and grant writing, leadership and management style, parental involvement, community involvement, student involvement, and education philosophy and school reform.

Members of both committees decided it was best to let each board member come up with his or her own questions. However, in order to be consistent, the same questions will be asked of each finalist.

frankly speaking

by Kevin John Sowyrda

Mike Caira said he knows what the easier thing to do would have been regarding the now infamous hazing incident. "I could have stepped out of it," said Caira, who as town moderator earned a reputation for political prowess. But today, throwing his usual brand of political caution to the local winds of controversy, Caira has taken the first step in endorsing the recall movement aimed at two school committee members who previously opposed the bid of his father to join the school committee.

But the conviction of his words tell a story that Mike Caira's father isn't the issue here. "It's not my nature to abandon my children," said Caira, who said his much talked about speech at the October 14 school committee meeting was the public expression of a father frustrated with "school committee members acting out of anger."

The anger emanates from what Caira charges is the animosity held by Shirley Callan and Linda McMenimen toward Bill Fay. "People are talking about the motivation of parents but school committee members acting out of anger caused this problem," said Caira, citing a history of sour relations between Fay and key committee members. "In their zest to get Jimmy Gillis and embarrass Bill Fay they hurt a lot of kids."

It was his speech last month which hurled Caira into the middle of a local brawl which has captivated media and public attention throughout Massachusetts. But Caira is critical of the media spotlight on Wilmington because he likened it to a kaleidoscope, falsely depicting football parents. "The media has redefined the issue. Our issue was how it was handled but the media has said this is a football at any cost mentality."

"There's merit to an appointed school board." — Mike Caira

Caira, who's become almost a media watchdog on this issue, able to carefully critique each article and cite the author's name, said that, "It's not whether you support football or condone hazing" because everybody supports the former and condemns the latter. Caira said he is focused, more so than the media, on what the real issue. "The question is did these two individuals abuse their power in such a way that it has caused serious problems to the students and community at large." Caira went so far as to say that "there's merit to an appointed school board" because political interest may have taken control of the local education agenda.

McMenimen in the eye of the storm

Linda McMenimen finds herself in the eye of a political hurricane, but said she is not backing down and need not apologize. "I felt that unless this issue was discussed openly, the same results would occur that happened eleven years ago when we didn't address this issue," said McMenimen, recalling a 1981 hazing case. "The issue was dealt with but not discussed openly. It left unanswered questions."

McMenimen said the unanswered questions may have festered and laid the foundation for the problems of today. "Maybe if the issue had been discussed openly eleven years ago and the pressure against hazing was evident, this wouldn't have happened."

Caira's charges focus on McMenimen's alleged leaks to the press, but McMenimen flatly denied providing "any information on specific incidents to the press at any time."

Political execution

Meanwhile, this game is in overtime and getting tedious. The recall provision in the town charter is a good one when it is respected and responsibly used. But suspicions that someone pulled a Daniel Elsborg are hardly sufficient cause for political execution.

Save the recalls for those under indictment or caught with public cash sticking out of their pockets. Continuing the recall will only serve to hurt those people the recallers want to defend — the kids.

Briefly in Politics . . .

School Committeeman Phil Fenton, Sr. was admonished by Linda McMenimen at last Wednesday's school committee meeting for what she considers a professional betrayal. Fenton's is one of 232 signatures you'll find on the recall affidavits submitted to the town clerk last week by Selectman Dan Ballou. But Fenton defended his endorsement, saying he jumped on the recall bandwagon because of the "irresponsible actions" of McMenimen and Shirley Callan.

As for Mike Caira's signature, Selectman Gerry Duggan said it was "inappropriate" for the manager to jump into the hazing debate publicly as he did at the roaring October 14 school committee meeting. "His position is not to make inflammatory statements," said Duggan, adding that though he perceived Caira as "very intelligent" he considers his actions "too political." The freshman selectman said that the current recall movement was an irony because the supporters may be prolonging their own pain. However, Selectmen Chairman Mark Haldane said "by holding public office Caira has not surrendered his rights as a citizen or his responsibilities as a parent."

OK, what now?

by Larz F. Neilson

Well, he's gone. Bill Fay is no longer the superintendent of schools, and by Friday, he'll be in Florida with his family.

And what has Wilmington gained? That question will have to sit on hold for a while, until the new superintendent is hired and brought up to speed.

The Wilmington school system could do a whole lot worse than it did with Bill Fay as superintendent. The man has exceptional personal communication skills, and a thorough knowledge of the Wilmington schools. His reason for becoming superintendent of schools was for the sake of the Wilmington schools and students. He did not seek the position to be a superintendent of schools, but to be the Wilmington superintendent of schools. He thought he had something positive to offer.

Fay started a curriculum committee which has been doing a tremendous job. The School-Business Partnership has provided an avenue for the business community to contribute to the schools. And his move to establish a day care system will be looked at as a good effort that was only a little ahead of its time. It is no wonder that in January, school staff gave him a 210-14 vote of confidence.

No sane person can deny that Bill Fay was a good administrator. Of late, he has come under fire for his handling of the hazing incident. In announcing his decision, Fay, always the gentlemen, nicely said that he reduced the punishment handed down to the football players because he had more latitude than did Principal Paul Fleming. What he did not say was that Fleming never spoke to any of the coaches, among other things. Now that he is not superintendent, Fay is more candid and less tactful.

Fay did the town, the students, and the school system a tremendous favor in making his decision the way he did. Without his careful handling, it would have ended up in court, with all the students dragged to the witness stand. The bad news would have gone on and on.

And the precedent of a superintendent overruling a suspension was set by Dr. Carol Sager, who overturned AD Jim Gillis' move to suspend two players from the team after the 1981 hazing incident. That action to overturn was recommended in writing by school psychologist Dr. Harriet Allen, who at the time was close to Shirley Callan.

So now, Fay has been tarred and feathered and sent on his way. And everything in the school system is going to be just ducky. I'm waiting for the flowers to start blooming outside the Roman House, kind of like Doonesbury pictured the White House after Nixon resigned.

It doesn't take a master gardener to know that there will be no flowers blooming. But what could take place between now and spring, if the recall of two members of the school committee is successful, is a replacement of a majority of the school committee. With the combination of the recall and three expiring terms, you could be looking at five new school committee members in April. And unless the sitting school committee members change, the system will not change.

The present school committee has proven itself capable of doing little except fighting. The committee has been wrapped up in nit-picking of personalities, paying no attention to educational issues. The two members under the recall petition have focused most of their attention on one goal: eliminating Fay.

Don't believe the line that the recall is only taking place because some football parents are bitter about the hazing incident. The recall is taking place because some citizens are genuinely concerned about the way the school committee has been conducting business.

It's time for the political fighting on the school committee to end, and a healing process to begin. A new school committee is needed if the tone is to change.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

This summer I had the pleasure of spending two days in Wilmington working with Stoddard Melhado and 15 WHS Peer Leaders. Stoddard and these students spent three full days focusing on HIV/AIDS education and prevention. Stoddard and I worked together to create a three day workshop in which students would 1) explore their own attitudes and values about sexuality, and HIV/AIDS, 2) learn factual information about HIV/AIDS and its prevention and 3) think about their roles as peer leaders as it relates to HIV/AIDS education and the student body in Wilmington.

The peer leaders were a fabulous group. Committed, enthusiastic, eager to learn and hard working are the words that come to mind. We are all living and teaching and working in the age of AIDS. Our response is critical in terms of preventing the spread of this horrible and fatal disease. You have at WHS an incredible resource for preventing AIDS. 15 educated peer leaders who understand how the virus is and is not transmitted. They know the difference between myths and facts and they are concerned with how vulnerable teenagers in Wilmington are for contracting the virus.

Again, it was a pleasure to work with these students. I learned a great deal from them. You have an excellent resource. It is my hope that Wilmington will utilize these students to educate their own peers and younger students about HIV/AIDS and its prevention.

Sincerely,
Janice Durham

Dear Larz:

Adages! Adages! Did you know that two wrongs don't make a right? How about might over right?

Well those ideas have been expressed by our selectman, Mr. Ballou, regarding the "incident" affecting not only the chosen few on the football team, but with Mr. Ballou's efforts, have affected the entire student body of our school system, not just the athletic department.

Granted the acts of a few, in this case, the players, coaches, administrators, and in their own way some elected and appointed officials have not only frustrated and angered the town's people but have deeply hurt our children.

Mr. Ballou, did you really mean your comment to my husband last Saturday, when he refused to sign your petition. I thought it would have been your son's year in school that was ruined - not yours. They had to face the student body because they were on the team (and I am not, I repeat, not accusing them of anything). Was my impression of this comment correct? It seems that you cared more for your feelings than their embarrassment over what happened.

You seem to feel you personally were the only person hurt or involved. But you forgot about the rest of the kids, the field hockey team, the soccer team, the track team, band and any other groups I might have forgotten. Your petition just keeps the fire fanned and the cauldron brewing - This is your idea of a witch hunt, isn't it? In your capacity as an elected official, you should be working at your utmost capacity to solve the problem and calm the waters as quickly as possible and to make damned sure this will never happen again in my town.

I have always supported you in the past and stood up for your actions. Now is the time you can and should support us and take a stand to stop this recall because the losers in all of this are our kids.

Joyce Murray

Dear Larz:

This is an open letter to the school committee.

I want to express my anger over not being allowed to read my letter in support of Bill Fay during "delegations" at the 10/28/92 school committee meeting. I had submitted my letter to Mr. Peterson several weeks before the meeting when I requested to be put on the agenda. He not only read my letter, he expressed to me that he felt what I had written was true. I also spoke with Mr. Peterson about one hour before the October 28 meeting, at which time he said he would allow me to read my letter under "delegations." He never, I reiterate, never indicated in any way, shape or form that he would not allow me to read my letter in its entirety.

I was shocked therefore when he stopped me at the very beginning of it, as soon as I had begun to state what I considered unfair treatment of Bill Fay by certain board members over the entire past three years. I was deliberately put in an extremely unfair and humiliating position. For Mr. Peterson to say that he would not allow any critical remarks about a board member is ludicrous. He has allowed certain board members to insult, criticize and embarrass Mr. Fay since he became chairman. I never saw him bang his gavel and tell any one of them to drop their criticisms and "just get to the positive aspects" of what they wanted to say.

He knew that by doing what he did eliminated almost my whole letter. Whatever happened to freedom of speech? Or does that apply only to Peggy Kane, Shirley Callan and Linda McMenimen?

Why is this board so desperate to silence anyone who might have something positive to say about Bill Fay? Do they all believe he has no supporters? Then that is a foolish belief because there are plenty of people who feel he has done a good job and would like to see him stay on as superintendent. He has had to endure much negative press over the past few weeks by people who refuse to see that his handling of the hazing punishment was the fairest and best that could be meted out under the orchestrated glare of publicity he had to operate under.

Instead of criticism, he deserves respect and appreciation for doing his best to protect the well being of the children involved. Saying something nice about Bill Fay seems to be taboo these days, but I never thought the chairman of the school board would not allow an opposing view to be heard at an open meeting. I've had many people tell me they could not believe I was denied the opportunity to read my letter, and that perhaps my civil rights had been violated. Yes, I'm angry at being denied the opportunity to speak out, but the denial that hurts the most is seeing a good man denied the opportunity to renegotiate his contract because a majority of the school committee is biased against him.

Mr. Fay, I for one will be truly sorry to see you go. I am sorry for the way you were treated and most of all, I'm sorry for all the kids who are losing a fine superintendent.

Sincerely,
Kathi Gillis

The November 9, 1967 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

The finance committee heard John Callan, chairman of the Permanent Building Committee propose that the sum of $2,122,000 be used to construct a new elementary school on Shawsheen Avenue. The proposal for construction of the new school would appear as Article 3 in the November 20 town meeting.

According to Nosey Nancy, Gus Blaisdell of Swain Road was at New England Memorial Hospital, Stoneham, recuperating from a bout with pneumonia.

John Zengilowski of Cunningham Street enlisted in the Navy.

In keeping with the 1967 theme "Mexican Fiesta", Sam Bertwell, Evelyn Spear, Sandy Evans and Beth Emery were pictured wearing Mexican hats at the annual fair sponsored by the Congregational Church. Also in the picture were Sam's grandson James Buck and a new pet rabbit named Walter.

Team owner Ben Ristuccia was pictured accepting the first place trophy of the Wilmington Little League Orioles, from Larry Noel, manager.

Covered with mud, Jackie Gillis was pictured driving North Reading's Waddell out of bounds, with two minutes to go in the last quarter of Saturday's football game. "Wildcats reigned in the rain, 15-5."

Lucci's market offered smoked shoulders at 38 cents a pound; roasting chickens, 39 cents a pound and cube or sirloin steak, 98 cents a pound.

New subscribers to the Town Crier could receive the balance of 1967 plus all of 1968 for $3.50; out-of-towners, $4.50.

Elia's Market advertised a three pound bag of onions for 19 cents; three pounds of apples, 29 cents and bacon, 69 cents a pound.

The November 3, 1982 edition of the Town Crier of Tewksbury noted that:

Top vote getters included Edward Kennedy, Dukakis/Kerry, Francis Bellotti, Michael Connolly, Robert Crane.

With 64 percent of registered voters casting their ballots, Tewksbury residents were in favor of the bottle bill, nuclear weapons freeze and the death penalty, but opposed to private school funding. The School Committee unanimously accepted the resignation of head wrestling coach George Patterson. The action came on the heels of a salary dispute.

Donna Haines of Monroe Street was named chairman of the newly incorporated Friends of Tewksbury Public Library, Inc., cultural program committee. Nancy Conley of Kearsage Street was appointed to research the possible installation of a program for young people with learning disabilities.

This bit of gravestone humor in Tewksbury included an editorial comment.

Pop Warner, Little League join forces to update ballfield

by Arlene Surprenant
The Glen Road ballfield may be getting a facelift soon if the project is okayed by the Wilmington Board of Selectmen.

According to Bob Surran, president of the Wilmington Little League, his organization will be joining forces with Wilmington Pop Warner and the town in an effort to upgrade the present field and make it into a "first class ballfield." The driving force behind the whole project, said Surran, is Bobby Gillis, a member of the Pop Warner Board of Directors.

The project will create four baseball/softball fields and one football field behind the Town Hall. In addition, the proposed plan will provide for the following: the relocation of the perimeter fence to increase inside space from approximately 400 feet by 500 feet to 450 feet by 650 feet; the clearing and regrading of some of the land; portable bleachers; a handicapped accessible restroom / refreshment stand / storage building; and lights for night games. Surran said the lights would have little impact on neighbors because they will be located 200 feet from the nearest home.

In a letter to Wilmington selectmen, Pop Warner President Dominic Ritucci said, "maintenance of the facility would be a joint effort between the organizations and the town with the town having jurisdiction in all matters not mutually agreed upon."

Surran said, though the project will be phased in over several years, both organizations hope to have the ballfield in playing condition "as soon as possible." He explained the organizations would contribute $5,000 each to the project.

"Bob Palmer and the rest of the DPW do a terrific job and promised to give us a hand whenever possible," he added.

At a recent meeting, Wilmington selectmen applauded the project and suggested inviting representatives from both groups to visit their board.

"I like the idea of this. We need to do more for the youth of the town," said Dan Ballou.

Chester Bruce added he had no problem with the proposed improvements as long as the field was accessible to all youngsters in the town.

letters to the editor

Editor's note: The following is an open letter to Wilmington School Committee member Peggy Kane.

Dear Peggy:

I was surprised to receive your letter of October 14, 1992, in the mail on October 15. Inasmuch as we have maintained a cordial relationship for the past two and one-half years, and you have called me as recently as Monday, October 12, I was disappointed that you would send a letter to the press without the courtesy of first discussing the matter with me.

On Tuesday, October 13, I extended the members of the school committee the courtesy and respect I would hope to receive if appearing before another town board or committee. At the request of Chairman Peterson I called for a joint meeting to be held on October 13, 1992, at 7:00 P.M. I was later notified that the superintendent search sub-committee was conducting an interview at 6:30 P.M. and I had the Selectmen's meeting re-posted for a 6:00 P.M. start for your convenience.

Cognizant of your schedule, I began the meeting before Selectman Cain arrived and allowed the vote for the new school committee member to proceed without debate or comment, even though I was aware that I would be voting on the losing side of a 6-5 vote.

Furthermore, when Selectman Ballou asked for the opportunity to address the committee, I allowed time for members to leave if they wished and you were among those who took advantage of that opportunity.

It is not the role of the chairman to censor elected officials. I will not tell my fellow selectmen what issues they can or cannot address under new business. I did not know the purpose of Selectman Ballou's request to speak. I do know that he is entitled to at least the same courtesies I afforded you and your committee. I do not regret allowing Selectman Ballou to speak his mind. People will judge what he said based upon the merits. I take no position on what Selectman Ballou said, but I will defend his right to speak to any issue of public concern at our meetings.

It is not for you to determine what is or is not "out of order" at a selectmen's meeting. This is especially true when you had already left and did not witness what went was said.

I agree with you totally when you describe the present state of affairs as "a truly tragic crisis situation in our school system." But when you mail letters to the press condemning Selectman Ballou for "berat(ing) volunteer elected public officials" and then engage in the same conduct you condemn by characterizing him as a "self-interested football parent" and allege he was using his public office for personal gain without identifying that gain to which you refer, you do a disservice to the community. Categorizing people as "football parents" or "band parents" or any other group leads to generalization. Generalizations lead to prejudice and prejudice leads to discrimination. These people are just parents who are concerned about their children. You should not label them and refer to them in derogatory terms.

You write in your letter that "(i)t is unfortunate that Mr. Ballou did not choose to attend our meeting of October 14." I watched the meeting on WCTV Channel 52 Wednesday night and not only was Selectman Ballou present, but he addressed the committee and spoke to the press. You should have waited until after your meeting to write your letter if you wanted to insure the accuracy of such an accusation.

There is substantial, documented evidence that information from a confidential memorandum between the superintendent and the school committee was leaked to the newspapers and one member's statement Wednesday night that she had not spoken to the papers is an incredible lie. Does that exhibit good citizenship and responsibility?

The issue of hazing is one which should be handled administratively by the school department through the superintendent and the school committee. I have no public comment to make on the issue. Issues of leaking confidential information and conducting a trial by press, which are damaging every citizen in our community, are of concern to selectmen as well as others.

By sending your letter of October 14 to the newspapers, you have engaged in the type of political posturing that was so rightly condemned at your meeting on October 14. I am responding because I will not be a political punching bag for you or anyone else. I personally resent your comment that my actions constitute a breach of ethics and, on this issue, would challenge your standing to make such a charge. If you wish to debate the important issues of ethics and personal integrity, the so-called "character issue," I will gladly defend myself.

If you take issue with Selectman Ballou's comments, you should take that up with him. I owe neither you nor any member of your committee an apology for anything I have said or done, publicly or privately, and none will be forthcoming.

Peggy, enough is enough. While it may be impossible to get the genie back in the bottle, letters to newspapers only compound the tragedy about which you speak. Emotions are running high on all sides. The pot is going to boil over unless the heat is turned down. Columnists trivialize the crime of rape, sensationalize the hazing issue and cloud rational debate by feeding into the "media circus," that letters such as your's fuel. If you wish to speak to me about this or other matters, as you have numerous times in the past, you know my telephone number.

Very truly yours,
Mark T. Haldane, Chairman
Board of Selectmen

Dear Larz:

As the dust begins to settle somewhat on the hazing incident, I would like to offer my views on the subject. Mrs. Callan and Mrs. McMenimen turned a bad situation into a tragic situation by their constant remarks to every type of news media.

This is in direct violation of their own "handbook." Once they started their barrage of information to the media, real justice could never be achieved. One would think that before giving out information that would publicly humiliate the town, the school system and the students, they would have had the decency to make sure it was accurate. And whatever happened to due process? They will tell you a coverup was in process. Nonsense! They were already hard at work sensationalizing and distorting the truth to the newspapers before the police were done with their investigation.

Why the release of information? They will tell you it was their concern for the victims. Preposterous! I will tell you that if one of my sons was a victim, the very last thing I would want is all of eastern Massachusetts knowing about it. The real reason for their unprofessional behavior was because of the principals involved - Mr. Gillis and Mr. Harrison. Mrs. Callan and Mrs. McMenimen acted like two vultures who thought they saw fresh meat and moved in for the kill.

Events were moving fast enough so they decided to play judge, jury and executioner with the incident. My belief is that if the same incidents had happened with the band, they probably would have acted in a professional manner and in accordance with the Mass. Assoc. of School Committees Handbook. I have watched these same tactics used over many years against the superintendent and the athletic director. These women believe that if they have a personal dislike for an individual or if it suits their political agenda, they are empowered to fabricate and/or distort events.

Scary, isn't it? They created the media hype and mystery surrounding the incident. Talk of broomsticks and sexual fondling filled the newspaper columns and airwaves. Outrageous lies. You placed Mr. Fleming and Mr. Fay in the same room with only two exits - Mr. Fleming left by one exit and got blasted by the parents; Mr. Fay took the other exit and guess what? Boom! Gentlemen, you were both doomed from the start by Mrs. Callan's and Mrs. McMenimen's actions.

Let me talk about the punishments issue. I, like 99.9 percent of the population of this town, do not know what happened at the camp. I will not pass judgment. I do not believe what was placed in the newspapers by the women. I do believe that punishment would have been fairer if the school committeewomen had let the people charged with the responsibility of discipline do their jobs.

The question begs to be answered: Why, after watching their behavior for so many years, have I suddenly become so impassioned? Because this time, they went too far. When it was adult to adult, even when it involved my brother, I could rationalize staying non-political. This time, they hurt a whole group of kids. And many of them were, and are, completely innocent. I cannot stand by and allow this to happen. I urge the good people of this community to rally and speak publicly against this behavior from our elected officials.

Dick Gillis

Dear Larz:

I was approached recently to sign a petition to "recall" two school committee members who are accused of "indiscreetly" reporting specifics of the hazing episode to the Boston media.

While I've had some awareness of this episode, the petition has caused me to ask more questions and push myself to take sides in the issue. I have come up with these conclusions: The committee members were wrong to speak out in detail about these events. I would favor the recall if it was just that simple. But maybe there is more to it than just that.

Why were the students who were involved in hazing not held to the rules and the consequences of their actions as clearly stated in their handbooks? In my mind this is the greater wrong. It teaches the students that respect for other people, and the laws that attempt to emphasize the importance of respect for others, really are not so important after all, or at least not as important as getting on with the football season.

As a parent of young children eventually approaching this same school age, I am very disturbed about this. I hope I would not be satisfied until the lesson of personal dignity was upheld whether or not my kids were the aggressors or victims. If we don't expect much from our children be it in academics, athletics, or ethics, aren't we selling them short?

As an outsider to most at the town politics I can certainly see conflict between what appears political factions. But my signing of this petition does nothing to address an apparently deeper problem. If I understand it correctly, that problem is shirking from our duty to expect our kids to be responsible for their actions.

Respectfully,
Vincent Gatto

Dear Larz:

William Fay was wrong to undercut Paul Fleming's authority as principal by altering the punishment of the 14 football players. The school superintendent has absolutely no place to countermand a decision made in accordance with the established guidelines. Mr. Fleming has been given the responsibility of making this type of decision. He did not overstep the bounds of the handbook guidelines when he gave a decision that was his alone to make.

It is essential that we support the principal and his/her decisions. Without that support the consequences will chaos in the decision making process and principals who are hobbled by lack of authority. Does the school superintendent really want to be involved with the day to day operation of every school? With this action Mr. Fay has announced that the principal is no longer the decision maker of last resort. Mr. Fay's interference is especially tragic as a final act before he leaves the position of superintendent.

Sincerely,
Robert Truslow

Censullo case clears Tewks Appeals, but lawsuits expected

by Bill Conlon
Nancy Censullo's problems were finally settled on Monday night.

Or were they? When she tried to sell her home on Michigan Road some time ago, Censullo discovered that she did not own the land under her house. A surveyor had made a mistake years ago, and Mrs. Censullo's house was built in the wrong place.

The property in her name is a few feet away from her front door, and the land under her house belongs to neighbor Dick Sughrue, a builder.

Sughrue said he would trade her a parcel of land for part of her land, and she would own the land under her house. But Sughrue planned on more than just a land swap.

Sughrue drew up lands to develop four houselots off Michigan Road, and if the plans went through, Mrs. Censullo would be given the piece of land she needed.

Neighbors, however, opposed the development, and still do.

Multiple, repeat meetings before the Tewksbury Planning Board, the Tewksbury Board of Appeals and the Tewksbury Conservation Commission were held over the past few months, including a session with the town manager trying to act as an arbiter between Censullo-Sughrue and the neighbors.

The conservation commission on October 21 voted to allow the four-lot subdivision, issuing an "order of conditions" to prevent damage to the wetlands on the site. The planning board in October also voted to allow the project.

On Monday night, the board of appeals decided the issue, officially ending the town's role in the saga.

Appeals members Walter Maciel, Edward Johnson and Sharon Pitts voted to grant perimeter variances for all four lots. The lots had the required one-acre size and 150 feet of frontage, but the shape of the lots was improper. The appeals board variances allowed the new shapes.

But the neighbors are not finished with their protests yet.

Sughrue's attorney said a suit had been filed to overturn the planning board's approval, calling the legal action "frivolous litigation" meant only to delay the project. He said a countersuit would be filed, seeking attorney's fees, court costs and any expenses.

After the appeals board decision on Monday night, opponents said a lawsuit would be filed to overturn the appeals board decision as well.

Mrs. Censullo's problems are not yet over, it seems.

Parent makes last ditch effort for Fay

by Arlene Surprenant
Wilmington parent Kathi Gillis made a last ditch effort Wednesday to save William Fay's job as superintendent of schools. Gillis stood up at the end of last week's school committee meeting and asked the board to suspend the superintendent search until the attempt to recall two school committee members is over. The school committee is expected to name a new superintendent by November 18.

"If you have the best interests of the students at heart, you will keep Mr. Fay in the job," she said. Gillis, who later said she is supported by a group of residents who feel Fay was unfairly treated by the committee, said if the recall attempt succeeds, new members might want to reopen negotiations with Fay.

Gillis was recognized during the "Delegations" portion of the agenda. As she began to read her statement and was referencing the treatment Fay had allegedly received by some committeemen, she was interrupted by Chairman Bob Peterson, who warned her not to "disparage" any members of the board.

"Would you like to edit it (the statement)?" asked Gillis.

When Peterson replied, "not particularly," Gillis charged that "criticizing people seems to be the way it goes at these meetings." She then went on to praise Fay saying he's been accessible, competent, and had the best interests of the students at heart.

After the meeting, committee member Peg Kane said it was her belief that "nothing's changed in the view of the committee. We are in the final stages of a superintendent search."

Gillis claimed that Peterson had read and agreed with her statement before the meeting and, at that time, did not ask her to delete any portion of it.

"He denied me the chance to speak. Obviously, I'm not allowed to say how he's (Fay) been treated," Gillis told the Town Crier. She added that the school board, especially four "biased" members, were taking away Fay's rights.

Gillis said she favored the recall of Committeemen Linda McMenimen and Dr. Shirley Callan. Selectman Dan Ballou is leading a recall drive against the two members for allegedly violating the code of ethics in the school committee handbook and politicizing the recent hazing issue.

"I'll work night and day on the recall with Mr. Ballou," vowed Gillis adding, "that's the only way this will die down."

Gillis also charged that Callan, who spoke against the $4,000 cost of the recall process in another paper, "flagrantly and deliberately" violated her own code.

"If it costs Wilmington $4,000, it's the best $4,000 we ever spent," she said.

Callan maintains she never revealed any specifics about the investigation to any media source. She also denied violating the school committee handbook and said she is being blamed now for those times when she opposed Supt. Fay or his recommendations.

Pizza parlor ordered to remove booths

by Arlene Surprenant
The owner of a local pizza take-out store was ordered Monday to remove tables and booths from his facility or face further fines or revocation of his license for violating the zoning bylaws.

According to Health Director Greg Erickson, Cristos Eliopoulos, owner of Andrea's Pizza on Main Street, was well aware of the law prohibiting seating in take-out establishments.

"This is the same person who had this law written for themselves," he said. Erickson reminded members of the Wilmington Board of Health that Eliopoulos had approached them about amending the bylaws and the board supported the petition at town meeting.

The director told members he had received a complaint about the booths on Monday, October 26. He explained both he and the building inspector sent letters ordering compliance with the law but the owner failed to comply.

Chairman Jim Ficociello noted that Eliopoulos now faces $300 in fines — $50 for each day the booths and tables are in the store.

Store Manager Charlie Karambelas explained that the owner sought advice from a local attorney about putting in the tables. He added, "no one's eating or sitting in the store (now)." Karambelas asked if the tables could remain.

"It's a moot point. It's illegal," Ficociello replied.

After listening further, the manager promised to remove the tables and booths the next day.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

As a result of a personal accusation made at a televised meeting by a member of the Wilmington School Committee. I responded with the following letter which, to my dismay, was not publicly read at their last meeting.

Alan Fessenden

Dear Mr. Peterson:

After viewing the video tape of the September 9, 1992 Wilmington School Committee meeting and in particular the comment made by school committee person Shirley Callan pertaining to my attitude toward teaching, I feel compelled to comment on her personal verbal attack and to correct the misinformation she reported to those in attendance as well as to those of the viewing audience. Ms. Callan's public comment - "the man hates teaching" - has attacked my integrity, has questioned my professionalism, and has unfairly evaluated my attitude as it pertains to performing my duties as a classroom teacher. I take exception to her comment and ask that you enter this reply into public record by reading it at your next scheduled meeting and by placing it in my personnel file.

I am presently working in my 27th year in education with this being my 25th year in the Wilmington School System. Except for the past three years in which I coordinated the Wilmington School/ Business Partnership, I have served as a classroom teacher on the secondary level. Throughout my educational career, I believe I have always acted with the utmost of professionalism, have offered meaningful classroom instruction to challenge my students, have received outstanding evaluations from my supervisors, as well as having had a positive effect on a great many of my students. I will continue to treasure the many classroom experiences endured throughout the years in addition to the many friendships which have developed with countless students. I am now looking forward to working in the classroom with the children of many of these former students and I would hope the same positive role model image I conveyed as a teacher and adult will have an equal effect on these students.

It is true that the last three years as coordinator for the Partnership, I have looked forward to this new challenge in my career. It has given me a new perspective as to how education can reach another level while attaining its goals through the inclusion of the business community. The enhancement of the curriculum by complementing it with a willing business community can only be a positive gain for education while offering students additional insights as to how their education and their career coincide and develop in the classroom.

Now that my position with the Partnership has been eliminated, I return to the classroom as a full time teacher. With these past experiences dealing with the local businesses, I believe I will have a greater impact with my students while adding some diversity to my instruction. This new challenge will be met with the same professionalism which I have demonstrated in the past.

To suggest that an educator employed in their school system "hates" his profession as a classroom teacher is certainly a degrading and unfair statement by an elected official who has based her thoughtlessness purely on hearsay information and has never once personally asked me to verify this position. I most assuredly have the right to be confronted with those who provided this hearsay information, especially when the accusation was made in a public forum. This is especially true when realizing that any elected school official should be supporting a positive aura within the teaching fraternity, and in particular, when this elected official is also a member of the teaching force. This is another example of passing judgment on a person without first conferring with the person who is directly involved. I truly believe this comment by Ms. Callan, without my having a chance to defend myself, will have profound repercussions on my effectiveness in the classroom as a result of the many parents and students who attended, viewed, or discussed the events of this meeting.

I certainly expect Ms. Callan to apologize both publicly and in writing for this injustice she has committed toward me. In the future, I can only hope that any future defamatory reference to personal educational beliefs be referred to the person involved before being made public.

Respectfully submitted,
Alan F. Fessenden

Finance center at Wang towers?

Rep. James R. Miceli (D-Tewksbury/Wilmington) has been working to locate a Department of Defense Finance Center in Lowell's Wang Towers. If the proposal is accepted by the Department of Defense, over 7,000 jobs will be created for the Merrimack Valley Region.

Miceli states that Lowell would be an ideal location for the Department of Defense and would provide a much needed boost to the area's economy. "Because of the layoffs by many of the area's companies, there is a large pool of highly skilled and well qualified personnel ready to accept positions," says Miceli.

If the Department of Defense accepts the proposal, the Wang Towers could be ready for partial occupancy within four months of the acceptance date.

Miceli announces home renovation loan program

Rep. James R. Miceli (D-Tewksbury/Wilmington) in conjunction with the Mass. Housing Finance Agency (MHFA) and the Executive Office of Communities and Development (EOCD) says a new offering of low-interest loans to help low and middle income homeowners is now available. Through the Home Improvement Loan Program (HILP) $5 million in loans is now available to serve an estimated 400 households.

MHFA financing is initiated through participating housing rehabilitation agencies statewide. These agencies will help borrowers through the loan application and home improvement process. Under HILP, five percent fixed rate loans are available for amounts from $2,500 to $15,000. Repayment terms range from six months to 15 years and are adjusted to accommodate the borrower's monthly expenses.

Half the HILP funds are reserved for elderly homeowners and for households in need of handicapped accessibility.

Rep. Miceli advises interested parties to contact MHFA at (617) 451-2766 for more information.

Tip of the ol' fedora

A spirited tip of the ol' fedora goes this week to the Chisholm family of Lucaya Circle, Wilmington.

Brithany Alyson Chisholm, three-year-old daughter of Doug and Eileen Chisholm became a US Citizen during naturalization ceremonies held at the State House on October 30.

Brithany's brother, Paul, a first grader at the Woburn Street School, also a naturalized citizen, attended the ceremony with his family. They enjoyed breakfast at Faniel Hall and the festivities were topped off with red, white and blue cupcakes for supper...Well done, group; very well done, indeed!!

Brithany and Paul are grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chisholm of Mont Vernon, N.H. and James O'Shea of Bloomfield, N.J.

Another one!!

Also in the "top of the fedora" department this week...

John Engdahl of Charlotte Road, Wilmington a recent bone marrow transplant, took part in the Bay State Marathon held October 18 and sponsored by the Lowell Roadrunners.

Cheered on by friends and family, John ran and finished the half (13 miles), making him a champion, especially in the eyes of his children, Kim, Eric, John, Ernie and Michelle, Robin and Ritchie.

And a bunch!!

A group of caring individuals, employees of College Marketing Group (CMG) Information Services of Ballardvale Street, Wilmington is offered a "whole bunch of spirited fedora tips" this week.

For more than three weeks, a lonely, bedraggled, and pregnant cat took up residence in the area of CMG and soon her plight was noticed by several of the firm's employees, who attempted to feed and care for their new friend.

Resisting as long as he could, Jim Palastra, succumbed to his sense of compassion, took the feline family to his home in Reading.

Shortly afterward, more anguished cries were heard and employees began a search. Days later as the cries became more desperate, Glenn Acciardi of Andover, squeezed up and under the loading dock and located the source of the wailing...two more frightened, abandoned kittens. These two "heart stealers" are now living with Wallis Bullock...well done, everybody!!! It's nice to know you're still out there!!

Anyone interested in adopting a CMG orphan is not only invited, but urged to call 657-7000, ext. 3040.

ARE YOU PROTECTED?

by Edward H. Wilkens

AFTER THE PARTY FIRE

QUESTION: My friends had a party at their home. The house burned down late that evening when everyone was sleeping. How can this situation be prevented?

ANSWER: A major cause of home fires is cigarettes smoldering in upholstered furniture. It takes an hour or more to notice before it goes "poof" and up in flames. Unfortunately, this usually happens after everyone is asleep.

Before a party, provide plenty of large, deep ashtrays. After the party, remove cushions and feel around for ashes. Chairs and sofas are the main offenders. Gather up all ashtrays and place them in the sink. Then go to bed...and sleep a lot safer.

MOST HOME FIRES happen during sleeping hours. Check for smoldering cigarettes after a party.

Bill would exempt towns from cost of clean-ups

Rep. James R. Miceli (D-Tewksbury/Wilmington) has filed legislation which would exempt cities and towns across the commonwealth from responsibility for environmental clean-up costs under the state's hazardous waste clean-up law.

Rep. Miceli believes that communities should be protected by legislation. "Under the current Mass. law, bankers, insurance companies, and developers are exempt from responsibility regarding hazardous waste clean-ups while communities are held responsible. Our cities and towns need protection," says Miceli.

This bill would exempt communities from certain costs associated with hazardous waste clean-ups.

Wilmington senior topics

October's gone

It's a little sad seeing the beautiful month of October passing away. November has arrived with much cooler and shorter days, but that will not keep us locked up in our homes. We have too much to do at the Senior Center.

Now that the hectic days of summer and fall have gone, it is time to settle down and get the body we did not take too much care of, back in a healthy state.

It is time to put the mind to work in the many classes at the center, to fit your desire. What is available to you? An excellent exercise class every Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning from 10 to 11; Tuesday morning from 10 to 11, the nutrition class is held on the first and third Tuesday; ceramic and craft classes are held Wednesdays from 9 a.m. to noon; the shop class is conducted Thursdays from 9 to noon and the dance class is held Thursdays from 1 to 2:30 p.m. Whist games are held on the second and fourth Mondays of the month from 1 to 2:30 and bingo is played Friday from 1 to 2:30 and there's an art class Monday at 1.

Nurse at the center Thursday

The nurse is at the center every Thursday to check blood pressures from 1:30 to 3 p.m. and the third Thursday she gives the diabetes test.

Elks dinner

Thursday, Nov. 12 the Wilmington seniors will be the guests of the Tewksbury/Wilmington Elks in the South Street Hall for the annual donation of a dinner dance beginning at 6:30 p.m. If you have not received a ticket at this writing, we have a few left. Call or drop in to the center.

Nutrition class

The next nutrition class will be held Tuesday morning, Nov. 17 from 10 to 11. As we age, how and what we eat is so important in keeping our bodies strong and healthy. Trying to find the proper food to eat is difficult unless we know all about food and the effect it will have on our bodies.

To help us learn all we can about nutrition we have a professional nutritionist come to the center. Eating properly can be an asset to anyone suffering from cancer, diabetes, arthritis, high cholesterol, heart ailments and over weight. Come and join the class, when you start to feel and look much better you will be glad you did.

Doctor Casey

Podiatrist Dr. Casey will be the Center Wednesday, Nov. 25 to treat ailments of the feet. The doctor, who will begin his program at 10 a.m. He has requested that the center let him know how many people he will be seeing. He has to plan how much time he will be able to give us. Please call the center for an appointment, 657-7595.

Whist November 9

The first whist of November will be held Monday, the 9th. It is necessary to arrive early if you wish to play. The game starts at 1 p.m.

Fair plans

Fair plans are moving along very quickly. Many beautiful articles are arriving every day. That pleases the chairman very much, but she is still a little worried that the money from the many chance books still out has not come in. As you know, there are some excellent money prizes on the tickets. Some of the money for these prizes will come from the money earned on the books.

Other articles needed for the fair will also be purchased with this money. She will be very happy if you have books out, you could take the money to her soon.

Life line button

Many of our seniors live alone and it is my hope that all of you have a Life Line Button on your person while you are in the house or out in the yard working. These buttons are not only for persons who are ill or disabled, but for any person who lives alone. A simple push of the button can save your life in a time of a sudden attack, a fall or an attempted break-in of your home. The Life Line programs are available through most hospitals in our area. Check with your hospital. Do not buy a Life Line system from a person who calls you on the telephone or a door to door salesman.

Redmen recover for win; Andover rips Wildcats, 42-7

Tewksbury recovered from a first quarter Lowell touchdown strike, as halfback Ryan McNeal ran for 130 yards and one touchdown and Chris Cullinan booted a 27 yard fourth quarter fieldgoal for the 10-7 victory under the Cawley Stadium lights Friday night.

The win boosted Tewksbury's MVC football slate to 4-3-0 on the season, while Lowell slipped to 1-6-0. The Redmen travel to Dracut Saturday for a 2 p.m. start against the lowly Middies.

The Red Raiders took a 7-0 first quarter lead when Deron Jozokos connected with Jay Cregg for a 66 yard touchdown pass.

Pop Warner (from page 13)

Good offensive players were Rory Warford, Chris Ramsdell and Andrew Campbell. Good defense by Jim Fennelly, Tom Southmayd, Jeremy Lee and Jonathan Fowle.

Wilmington is now in the final four for the Eastern Mass Conference Championship with their first playoff game this Thursday night, Nov. 5, against Beverly at Greater Lawrence Regional.

The Redmen bounced back with a McNeal one yard bolt for a second quarter touchdown before Cullinan's PAT and eventual game winning field goal.

In MVC football action Saturday at Wilmington, the Wildcats were no match for Andover, as the Golden Warriors rolled to a 42-7 romp.

Dan Ballou provided the Wildcats with their only highlight of the game when he returned a second quarter punt 84 yards for the touchdown. It was Ballou's 12th touchdown of the season.

The Wildcats will have their work cut out for them when they travel to Chelmsford Friday night to face the improving Lions in a 7:15 start.

In the Tewksbury game, goals were scored by Valerie Cwiekowski (two), and Michelle Lemos, with Kristen Kacamburas assisting on one goal.

Brianna Daisy, Kerri Axelrod and Valerie Cwiekowski were the keepers responsible for the Diamonds' fourth shutout in a row.

Michelle scored the first goal of the game and Kristen Kacamburas also scored on an excellent kick.

Diane Dellascio and Jenny Michaud played solid all-around soccer.

Special thanks to Christina Desimone's dad who was drafted as referee and did an outstanding job.

On Saturday, October 24, the Diamonds visited Wakefield and in an exciting game, defeated Wakefield 1-0.

Elizabeth Dorrance scored the only goal from an excellent pass from Valerie Cwiekowski. Kerri Axelrod was outstanding in goal, defense and on corner kicks.

Lisa Dineen and Kristen Kacamburas played excellent defense, while Diane Dellascio made some great passes as well as fine defensive traps.

In a battle for first place, Billerica visited Wilmington on Wednesday, October 21. In a well played game with lots of excitement, defense was the winner as neither team was able to score.

Elizabeth Dorrance was the lone scorer for Wilmington. Michelle Lemos, Lisa Dineen, and Diane Dellascio played solid two-way soccer for the Diamonds.

A successful season doesn't just happen. The overall dedication of the girls to practice and hard work paid off. All the girls participated in every game and of 11 players the team always had 10 on average at practice.

The two assistant coaches, Dave Cwiekowski and Bill Dineen, deserve much credit for the team's success. They worked diligently with the girls, as their sore muscles and vocal chords will attest.

The parents are to be commended for making the commitment to getting the girls to practice and for their moral support throughout the season.

The team wishes Elizabeth Carter and her family much success in their move to Colorado.

Outdoors column

Gearing up for the hunt

by Bill Conlon

Say you're going hunting -- just a day trip -- over the weekend. What do you bring along?

The question is more important than you might expect. Carrying the right equipment makes the day go smoothly, but lugging too much or not having what you need when you need it, can spoil an otherwise pleasant outing.

A checklist is vital, to begin with. That way, you won't be scrambling to think of what you'll need. Make up a list now.

Before you make an equipment list, you first have to ask yourself a few questions:

What kind of hunting will you be doing? A day in a duck blind takes little effort, while a day of humping hills and fields for partridge takes a bit more work, and more gear. A day spent on foot also means lighter clothes than a day of sitting.

How long will you be out? A long day in the field means lunch, while an "out-by-noon" jaunt means less to carry.

Where are you going? A patch of woods surrounded by major roads makes getting lost impossible. But if you plan to "go deep" you should take some stuff in case you have to spend the night.

And finally, how much game do you expect to see? Chasing woodcock requires far more ammunition than a deer hunt. I've seen guys go into the field carrying ammunition to last the full season, and ammo is heavy. Running out of shells or arrows is embarrassing, but lugging four boxes of number 6s is a little embarrassing as well.

The goal is to bring enough gear, but not so much that you're bushed by day's end. Let's go.

First, you need a compass and the knowledge to use it. Getting lost is terrible (I speak from experience) and a functioning compass will help keep you headed straight. Shoot a bearing on the truck when you start out, and keep it in mind.

A knife. We don't have claws or fangs, so a knife is our alternative. Smaller is better, and sharpness is assumed.

Water or something non-alcohol to drink. Do you really want to dip your head into an untested stream? If you're headed home at noon, the water can stay in the truck. Maybe.

Fire. A book of matches wrapped in plastic weighs nothing, but a fire can save your life. Nonsmokers are usually guilty of forgetting to take a fire source along.

Those are the basics, and they fit into a single pocket. Forget them at your peril. Surviving a night in the woods without any of those four is much more difficult.

Now for the rest. Wear a small backpack if you wish, but take care not to load yourself down.

Of course, put important stuff on the list as well. Your license, your shotgun, ammo, your boots, a hat, etc. You'd be amazed ...

Non-chocolate candy, or gum. It helps keep your mouth functioning without guzzling from the canteen every few minutes. Chocolate dries your mouth out, however, so leave it behind. I prefer Jawbreakers.

Chow? I've found that food hasn't got as much flavor in cold weather, so I take strongly flavored stuff like sardines, a few Granola bars and a SlimJim or two. It's a joy to break for lunch in the woods. Lovely.

Extra socks. Misery is defined as wet feet.

Cheap plastic rain gear. A poncho in a bag costs a buck and it's worth it's weight in gold when it gets wet.

A bag for your successes. Think of what you can expect to bring in, and bring the appropriate bag size. Try juggling three partridge, two pheasants and a cottontail in your hands and you'll wish you had taken a bag along.

A small flashlight. Just in case.

For ammunition, I plan for three rounds for every piece of game I'm hoping to take. With the spectrum of small game open now, that could mean a lot of shells, but I cut it off at a dozen in any case. It's plenty.

That pretty much covers it. Don't go into the field burdened down, or you'll know why at the end of the day. The old rule is "if it weighs an ounce in the morning, it will weigh a pound by sunset."

Now get out there and have some fun. Live the tradition.

--- Tackle Box ---

Massachusetts is expecting to see a deer harvest of 10,000 animals this year, and still the herd will grow. It is amusing that so many people will drop $75 or so for a non-resident license to one of the northern states in New England, while we've got thousands of big deer right here in Massachusetts. I'm sticking close to home, bow in hand.

Speaking of archery, bowhunting for Massachusetts deer is now open. A primitive weapons stamp must be obtained, but bowhunting offers an automatic "doe permit" for the first deer. The second one (yes, you can take two in the Bay State) must be wearing a hatrack.

The Mass. Division of Fisheries & Wildlife has just released "Exotic Vertebrates of Massachusetts" that outlines the wildlife invasion. The writeup names the incredible 257 species of invaders (8 amphibians, 119 birds, 37 mammals, 56 fish, 37 reptiles) that were released or escaped into the local milieu. For a copy send $3 to One Rabbit Hill Rd., Westboro, MA, 01581.

Soccer (from page 15)

Butler as well as fine passing from David Rappoli and Jason Hassey.

Sixers vs Celtics

The Sixers goals were put in by David Johnson and Brian Martiniello. Also playing well were keeper Matthew Bayles, Patrick Norton, Patrick Graham and Mike Reardon.

Scoring for the Green were Chris Catena (two) and Dave Silva (two). Also, the Celtics' Steve O'Dea had two assists and keeper Jarred Sawyer made some great plays in goal.

Girls' 1-2 grade division Dogwoods vs Tigerlilies

Caitlin Nee scored two goals to lead the Dogwoods. Other good plays included stellar goalkeeping by Kelly Komenchuk and Kirsten Frizol, and excellent performances from Catherine Michaud, Courtney Olszewski, Christine Dowling and Athena Karalekas.

Courtney Hassey scored for the Tigerlilies as teammates Rachel See, Kristen Burns, Elizabeth Coughlin, Taylor Higgins and Sarah Cheek hustled for the entire game.

Snapdragons vs Dandelions

Scoring for the Dragons was Stacey Comer. Kerri Gillespie and Stefanie Gable displayed great hustle and keepers Jennifer Leon and Gina Ranno made several great saves.

Willows vs Foxgloves

In another super defensive match, the Willows were led by the outstanding goalkeeping of Shannon Fahey and Tara Insalaco and the fine hustle of teammates Katie Riley, Emily Maloney, Lauren Cushing and Danielle Hodgson.

The Foxgloves Daniel Maison, Lauren MacDonald and keeper Michaela Rufo played excellent defense, while Vanessa Marcha, Ryan Kate Murphy and Taryn Nagle supported the offensive attack.

The Wilmington Recreation Dept.

will have tickets for sale for the December 27, 2 p.m. performance of Sesame Street Live at Boston Garden. Transportation will not be provided, but the train is convenient. Call 658-4270 to reserve tickets.

Horribles thanks

The annual horrors parade was held Saturday evening under pleasant, but chilly skies. The event was well attended by scary creatures of all ages.

The Rec Dept. thanks the following for their valuable civic spirit: police and fire departments, DPW, Rotary, Chamber of Commerce, Lions, Town Employees Assoc., Kiwanis, Sons of Italy, Dunkin Donuts, Burlington, Rocco's, Jack Cushing, Hugh Wiberg, Sciarappa's, WCTV, Cat Woman and other helpers.

Ski card

All skiers should check out the ski card international that the Rec. Dept. has for sale to the public.

These discount rate books sell for $20 and consist of coupons and free lift tickets at many nearby ski areas. These make great gifts for Christmas. Call the Rec Office or stop by the Town Hall weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

585 MAIN STREET (JCT RTES 38 & 129) WILMINGTON

A lot of changes seem to be in the making in North Woburn. One change, it seems, will be a new connection between Woburn and Wilmington.

Undercover Wear is a relatively new firm, near the Woburn/Wilmington line, visible from Route 93.

Undercover Wear Way is a street off Woburn Street, in Wilmington, which is south of Industrial Way, and which leads to the new firm. The Woburn Redevelopment Authority is reportedly making arrangements to connect the Undercover Wear property with streets in Woburn.

There are, in North Woburn, 245 acres of former industrial land which have been empty of buildings for some years. All the buildings have been torn down. Some of the industries dated back about 150 years.

From Wilmington one could drive down Woburn Street and arrive in that area. That was until the Woburn Street bridge (over the railroad) burned down over a dozen years ago. Now that area can be seen by driving on Route 93, toward Boston. It is empty land, just south of the Woburn line.

Some 15 or 20 years ago that area became known for its odors. The "Woburn Odor" was well known in Reading, and, to a degree, in Wilmington.

Last week, in Woburn a plan for the cleanup of the area was discussed. A full-fledged remediation of the toxic wastes in that area is about to begin, according to the Woburn edition of the Daily Times Chronicle.

The Chemical Waste Management Company of 41 Atlantic Avenue in No. Woburn held an open house to discuss the remedial plans for the toxic waste site.

John Hoff, site manager for the prime contractor in the cleanup told visitors that only 100 acres will actually require remediation. The firm will begin work on November 9.

Next spring the firm will start covering wastes in the undeveloped portions of the site. The site includes piles of buried hides, and a lagoon of dried lead arsenate.

For the most part the remediation will require regrading and covering of the wastes with a specially designed manmade sheet. Then the area will be covered with 16 inches of clean fill and loam, which then can be seeded.

Hoff said that a total of 200,000 yards of fill will be trucked in and used in the remediation. It would not be effective, cost wise, to use the rail line.

The site will be contoured to ensure proper runoff, and some of the clean fill on the site would be relocated to assist in the regrading.

Over 2,000 test holes and borings were conducted in the investigatory phase of the cleanup. The site was investigated as a part of the Superfund process since it was first determined to be contaminated in July 1979.

Locations where tannery and glue wastes were piled will receive a more specialized remediation. Every effort will be made to prevent a release of the "so-called Woburn Odor."

The Golder Associates is the firm which designed the remediation plan. Stephen Finn, of that firm explained that every effort will be made to prevent any release of the gases which were involved in the "Woburn Odor."

That odor was from a mixture of hydrogen sulfide and methyl mercaptan which was produced by the anaerobic decomposition of the buried hides and wastes, underground.

There will be pipes designed to collect and draw off the gases and to funnel those gases to a facility which will incinerate the gases. Carbon dioxide and water will be the only waste products.

Finn said that other contaminated spots, those with high levels of lead, arsenic or chromium will be covered with a permeable plastic textile, which will be covered with 16 inches of loam.

A new marshy wetlands area will be created south of the existing hide piles. It will serve as a flood plain protection in the event of a 100 year storm.

The Industri-Plex site, which seems to be further south has contaminants which are different, primarily benzene and toluene. A separate study of adjacent groundwater is also underway.

In a separate item, the New City of Woburn Transportation, the State DPW and the MBTA plan to build a 2,500 car rail transportation center at the end of Atlantic Avenue, on property owned by Peter Volpe. That property was formerly the Merrimack Chemical property.

It is a part of the remediation cleanup, and officials believe it will be much more cost effective to build the rail enter on the property as a part of the cleanup operation.

In addition to saving construction costs the asphalt parking lot would provide an additional cover, over the wastes.

Tied into the construction of the park-and-ride rail center will be a new exit into the industrial park from I-93. It would allow north and southbound traffic to enter the park or to go to the rail center.

The proposal would also let the MBTA phase out its present facility on Mishawam Road in Woburn, opening that property for development.

The Woburn Redevelopment Authority was chosen by the City of Woburn to coordinate efforts and oversee the engineering design of the I-93 proposal. The state has promised to pay for the construction.

Lynnfield's Daryl Jamison

Why? Because she wants to!

By DOUGLAS WOOD-BOYLE

Daryl Jamison is not an outstanding football player but that does not prevent the 16-year-old Lynnfield High School Junior from participating as hard at practice sessions as anyone else on her team.

Jamison fully admits that the only time she gets into a varsity game is when the team is "definitely going to win or going to lose."

However, as a member of the junior varsity squad, she is guaranteed to play in the second half of those games. When Jamison is on the field she plays safety on defense and wingback on offense.

A person who meets Jamison for the first time should not let her demure looks or pretty smile detract from the fact that she is able to make a decision and stick with it. Coach William Adams found that out last spring when the decision was made to join the football squad.

Adams said, "She is not the first female student that has talked about it (coming out for football)."

However, Jamison was the first to attend the team meeting and take and pass the strength test requirements.

As for Jamison, one of the first comments she makes is that she was not trying to make any political statements by joining the team.

"I felt like doing something I wouldn't ordinarily do," she said. "Hopefully it will make me more aggressive in other sports."

Those other sports are the girls teams of softball, volleyball and track. In track Jamison does a little of everything including 600 meter indoor track and high jumps.

She doesn't like to talk about herself but Jamison will admit "I'm pretty good at track and softball."

Lynnfield Athletic Director Robert MacLeod said, "She is a good athlete in winter track and softball. She may not get a scholarship, but she appreciates the sports."

Coach Adams notes that her theory of learning aggressiveness from football is subscribed to by a lot of players and coaches.

"Football is a game that, historically, many hockey, basketball and baseball coaches say they like their players to play. As far as building character, it is a team sport," Adams said.

The why of wanting to play football may stem from Jamison's, a Lynnfield native, admission "I have been to every (Lynnfield High School) football game since I was three-years-old."

She added that her father is a very sports minded person, coaching Pop Warner football, but that most of his attention in that area goes to her younger brother. Jamison's said that her mother would prefer neither of the children play sports.

During a self evaluation, Jamison said she was not a very aggressive person. Coach Adams said he would have to agree with that assessment and it is an area he would like to see an improvement in by next year.

Jamison is pretty tired of the publicity she has been getting for her decision.

She added that her friends thought the decision was "awesome." She also notes that it did not affect her social life at all.

As for any controversy, Jamison said it usually comes from the reaction of people in other towns where the team plays.

Adams said that he is used to the publicity. "I think what she is doing has taken a lot of courage."

Adams also notes that "she is sticking it out."

He said that Jamison is treated like any other team member, including taking a few hits on the field.

Adams is not unfamiliar with handling female athletes as he has been a girl's basketball coach for several years.

He has not made many changes in the operation of the team and those that were made were in the area of decorum.

Adams said, "Football is more of a macho street corner setting. She has had to blend more into us."

In his opinion, Jamison is not really varsity material. However, he adds that this is as much because it is her first year playing football as any other reason.

"I think we have treated her playing time wisely, only putting her in when she should be put in," he said.

Adams recalled the reaction of Jamison's teammates when the decision was first made. "At first the kids didn't think she would go through with it."

He noted, "At first there was a small amount of controversy. I think it has worked out well."

In Adams opinion, Jamison's being on the team has not affected its standing one way or the other. The team now has a winning 4 and 3 record with the 10 to 8 defeat of league leader Ipswich over the weekend.

"If you're a 500 coach, you're considered a good coach," Adams said.

NEMH Diabetes Awareness Day

New England Memorial Hospital will sponsor a Diabetes Awareness Day on Wednesday, November 18 from 2 to 7 p.m. at Cummings Park West, Building 600, on Washington Street in Woburn. The event, which is free and open to the public, is designed to help people who either have been diagnosed with or may be a risk of contracting diabetes.

It is estimated that 12 million Americans have diabetes, and that five million more have the disease but do not know it. Diabetes is a complex, life threatening disease with many related health risks. It is the most common cause in adults of acquired blindness, amputations and renal failure. It is also one of the major risk factors for heart attacks and strokes. With proper diagnosis and treatment, however, people with diabetes can lead full and normal lives.

Diabetes Awareness Day will feature lectures, exhibits, and free blood sugar, eye and foot examinations. Presentations by New England Memorial physicians and staff will include "Diabetes" The

Support group for elders

The changes brought about by aging affect more than just the elderly individual. All the people who love and care for older people are impacted.

"You and Your Aging Relative," a free support group sponsored by Winchester Hospital's Social Service Department discusses the role of the caregiver and the resources available to assist families.

This group meets on November 5th from 7 to 9 p.m. at 7 McKay Ave. in Winchester, and continues to meet the first Thursday of every month. It also meets from 7 to 9 p.m. on November 19th at Winchester Nursing Home and continues to meet at the nursing home the third Thursday of each month. There is no fee. For more information call (617) 756-2633.

collection of Wakefield native Franklin Poole paintings in the region.

The museum is open every Tuesday from 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m.

The program matches stressed parents with volunteers for a one-on-one friendship designed to overcome loneliness and isolation, offer a connection to community resources, and reduce the possibility of child abuse and neglect. Parents and volunteers meet at a mutually convenient place and time.

For more information, contact Canty at (617)935-6495.

SENIOR CENTER - Elder Affairs Secretary Franklin P. Ollivierre and Senator Richard R. Tisei announced recently that the City of Malden's Council on Aging will receive $18,119 in state grant money.

Based on each community's elderly population, the formula grants provide municipal Councils on Aging with funds to operate a variety of programs and services for the more than one million Massachusetts residents over 60.

Malden's grant will be used to assist in the funding of a social worker, two geriatric day care aides and a custodian.

WILMINGTON - Wilmington's Dr. Kenneth M. Leavitt has become a foot soldier in the effort to help the newly independent country of Lithuania. He is scheduled to move his practice temporarily to that country this fall.

A podiatrist on the staff of New England Memorial Hospital in Stoneham, Leavitt and fellow foot surgeons Drs. Brian Zinsmeister and Elizabeth Vulanich will spend eight to 10 days this month at the Vilnius University Emergency Hospital giving a mini course in reconstructive surgery and other topics and actually performing surgery.

International Medassist, Inc. of Belmont, a non-profit corporation formed primarily to assist Lithuania in areas affecting health care, is helping the doctors coordinate the trip.

The physicians are volunteering their time and paying their own expenses. Leavitt has gathered donated medical equipment and Wilmington businessman and philanthropist Edward Parker is lending a hand (no pun intended by the Wilmington "Town Crier," we presume) with a $2,000 matching grant.

Parker has challenged the Town of Wilmington to match his matching grant with a $2,000 donation to purchase surgical bone-cutting equipment for the Lithuanian hospital.

PARENT AIDE IN WOBURN AREA - The Parent Aide Program of the Woburn Council of Social Concern is seeking volunteers who will befriend isolated parents in distress.

Program Coordinator Jane Canty notes that they are looking for area people willing to share their time, attention and encouragement with a parent who really needs a friend.

Registered technologists receive certification

Two registered technologists at the Winchester Healthcare Mammography and Ultrasound Center, affiliated with Winchester Hospital, received advanced certification in mammography by the American Registry of Radiologic Technologists (ARRT).

Phyllis Laferrier, R.T.R.M. and Debra Bowers, R.T.R.M., recently completed and passed an extensive examination given by ARRT. This test verifies their skills in using state-of-the-art mammography equipment. The comprehensive examination included mastery of patient education skills, clinical breast examination, mammographic techniques, instrumentation, positioning and anatomy and physiology. Phyllis and Debra join Jeanine Rousseau, R.T.R.M., and Julie Richter, R.T.R.M. at the Center who also received advanced certification recently.

The ARRT exam was introduced nationally in January and is given four times a year. Certification signifies that fully licensed and registered technologists have demonstrated advanced skill in performing mammograms. They are now authorized to use the additional title Registered mammographer (R.M.). Under new legislation proposed this past year, this advanced certification will be required to ensure the quality of mammography exams. Having mammography performed by a Registered Mammographer allows the patient to receive state-of-the-art examination and education.

Located at 955 Main Street in Winchester, the Winchester Healthcare Mammography and Ultrasound Center now offers the local community access to the highest level of mammography examination available.

ARCHITECTURAL FAIR FOR STUDENTS

On Saturday, November 14, the Boston Architectural Center will host archifair, an architectural fair for high school students. Co-sponsored by the Center and the Boston Society of Architects, archifair will showcase architectural projects designed by high school students from the Greater Boston area.

Science fairs, music festivals, art exhibits and various athletic competitions are plentiful. Surprisingly, though, architectural fairs are few and infrequent.

Responding to this scarcity, the Boston Architectural Center will hold its first annual archifair this fall in its building on Newbury Street in Boston's Back Bay.

Archifair will feature a day-long program. In addition to exhibiting their own work, entrants will participate in a number of studio's designed for the event. Attendees will design projects and undertake competitions with practicing architects, architecture students and teachers. The activities programmed are intended to increase students' understanding of the ways in which architecture affects daily life and how the profession is studied and practiced.

The sponsors have created the fair to help students and their teachers become aware of architecture as a career with many opportunities, as well as to discover, recognize and promote talent among high school students.

Students interested should contact their allied-arts teacher or the Boston Architectural Center.

For more information please call Tina deMuinch Keizer at the BAC - (617) 536-3170.

WHITE HOUSE EXHIBIT AT KENNEDY LIBRARY

To celebrate the bicentennial of the White House, the Kennedy Library will open a special exhibit on November 17. The White House Exhibition, recently on display at the White House and at the Smithsonian Institution, is a large, amazingly detailed replica of the White House. The 50 by 25 foot model will be in the Library's pavilion during construction of new permanent museum exhibits which are scheduled in November 1993.

The model took over 30 years to research and construct, and includes hand-carved furniture made from the same woods used in the original pieces. Each tiny painting in the replica matches the exact colors of the original works, the televisions work, miniature clocks keep time and hundreds of lights illuminate the chandeliers.

Children will take special delight in the traditional White House Christmas decorations that will be on display during the holiday season.

While at the Smithsonian, and during an earlier exhibition at the Ronald Reagan Library, the replica attracted enormous public attention. During its stay, the Kennedy Library will present special educational programs for thousands of students from greater Boston's schools.

Please call (617) 929-4523 for more information about the White House Exhibition.

Bill Staines in Wakefield at Linden Tree Coffeehouse

Anyone not familiar with the music of Bill Staines is in for a special treat at the Linden Tree Coffeehouse on Saturday, November 7th. For over 20 years, Bill has traveled back and forth across America, singing his songs and delighting audiences at festivals, colleges, concerts, and coffeehouses. Radio and television appearances have included "A Prairie Home Companion," "Mountain Stage," and a host of local programs on PBS and network TV. He has become one of the most popular singers on the folk music circuit today.

Bill weaves a magical blend of wit and gentle humor into his performances. One reviewer wrote, "His music is a slice of Americana, reflecting with the same ease, his feelings about the prairie people of the Midwest or the adventures of the Yukon."

Opening for Bill Staines at 8 p.m. will be local favorites, The Blunt Instruments. The quintet of local residents perform a variety of folk music, traditional and blue grass. Recently they played at an annual Chili-fest at the Trolley Museum in Kennebunkport, Maine and participated in Wakefield Cable TV Talent Show.

Tickets for this performance are $8. The concert is partially funded by the Wakefield Council of the Massachusetts Arts Lottery. Doors will be open at 7:30 p.m.

The Linden Tree Coffeehouse is located in the social hall of the Unitarian-Universalist Church, 326 Main St., Wakefield. For information call (617) 246-2836.

Because she wants to

He based the opinion on the idea that he neither pushes his charges too hard nor is he too easy on them.

"I feel we could do better," Adams said.

Some of the changes that have been made are most noticeable in the locker room. Jamison has her own changing area and is not allowed to enter the locker room until the Coach has gone in to make sure that it is alright.

Adams made it clear that "she comes to all the meetings but has her own changing area."

He noted that some concerns were raised by parents about the effect Jamison would have on the team.

However, those concerns now seem, according to Adams, to have turned into praise for him and his coaching staff. That staff consists of: Jim O'Leary, offensive coordinator; Scott Brennan, backfield coach; Joe Maney, line coach; and, Frank Russo, freshmen coach.

Among those praising the coaching staff is MacLeod who said, "I don't know how happy (Adams) is. It certainly is a smooth situation and I credit the coaches for that."

One observer who has been doing a study on Jamison and the other two female high school football players in the state notes that Jamison is making a good contribution to her team. She is participating more than the others.

Those others are playing for Chicopee High School and Bellingham High School. One of the girls has not been playing because of an unrelated injury but attends all the practices and games.

Jamison does fairly well in school and is taking an honors course that will aim her toward college.

Adams notes that most athletes do well academically while their sports seasons are taking place because they have to be more focused and budget their time.

Under that premise, Jamison should have no problem getting into a college or in whatever choice she makes for her future life.

"Fay reduces gridiron hazing suspensions" ... "Fay seeks payment of $27k" ... "Group seeks to re-open negotiations with Fay" ... "Football camp banned; parents protest treatment." And that's only the front page news in a recent Wilmington "Town Crier" - along with pictures of the Woburn St. School's Columbus Day pageant featuring Colleen Campbell as Christopher Columbus.

According to the Crier, she had the right initials for the job.

--Wakefield's Northeast Metropolitan Regional Vocational School recently hosted math faculty from Northeast Metro Tech and Boston, Chelsea, Somerville, and Winthrop Public Schools, all members of the Metro Boston Tech Prep Consortium.

The three-week program included joint teacher training and discussion of Applied Math, an innovative national program focusing on higher level math skills, combining learning with doing and requiring changes in how and what is taught.

Applied Math presents math topics - used in the world of work - in arithmetic, algebra, geometry, trigonometry, probability, estimation, and problem-solving. Students use hands-on experiences and cooperative learning in small groups to apply mathematical reasoning to practical real life applications.

In follow-up workshops, teachers will compare implementation experiences, identify supplemental material and modify curricula.

--Chris Rose, an elementary school teacher specializing in children's literature, was scheduled to speak recently to the Tewksbury Heath Brook School's Parents Activity Council on "Choosing Holiday Books for Your Child" and "Reading Aloud to Children."

--Because of budget constraints at their school, Shawsheen Tech teachers have opted to take no increase in salary for the first year of their new three-year contract. School Committee Chairman John Gillis reports that teachers will pick up more of their medical and life insurance costs as well.

According to the contract which went into effect on July 1st, teachers will receive a four percent increase in the second year, a three percent increase in the first half of the third year and two percent in the second half of that year.

Gillis praised the teachers for their understanding.

--No one seems to have been keeping score: according to the "Daily News-Mercury," Malden High head coach Paul Finn was informed in late October that only four of his players had paid the $50 user fee instituted for all Tornado athletes this year by the Malden School Committee - officially leaving him with only four players on the football team.

Permission was given for an immediately upcoming game to be played after which payments made out to the City of Malden were expected.

Five football games had already been played - out of 10, including an end-of-season home Thanksgiving Day game against Medford which usually generates a minimum of $10,000.

The income from the user fee is expected to bring in another $2,000 from the football team. Other fall athletic teams are also affected by the fee, and waivers for financial hardship are available.

LIFETIME PLANNING FOR RETIREMENT

Babyboomers will soon look forward to leaving the hectic pace of the work-a-day world to enter retirement. But unlike their parents, there is increasing doubt about this generation's ability to maintain a comfortable standard of living in retirement. When employers shift benefit costs to employees, they are in effect telling employees to make their financial resources work harder, i.e. to become more self-reliant.

But does the employers role end there? Whose responsibility is it to help employees to plan their financial future? The employer, the employee, the government? Or are employees left to seek assistance on their own?

On Friday, November 6, the New England Employee Benefits Council (NEEBC) will be sponsoring a conference at the Vista International Hotel in Waltham on "Lifetime Planning for Retirement: A Shared Responsibility?" at which time these questions will be discussed.

The conference is intended for benefits, human resource, and financial professionals as well as retirement and financial planners.

Registration for this conference is $135 for NEEBC members and $195 for non-members. For more information, contact Linda Viens at (617) 239-1767.

MENDING HEARTS WOMEN IN TRANSITION

Mending Hearts is a support group for women who have suffered the loss of a relationship through separation, divorce or abandonment.

Meetings are held each Friday evening at 7 p.m. at St. Athanasius Rectory, 300 Haverhill St., Reading. For more information call (508) 664-3919 or (617) 944-8347.

Tracing the origins of aspirin

"Try leechEASE for the FAST relief of headache, muscle ache and fever" or "Put mud on your brain and feel the pain drain." Those slogans could have been the basis for a fourth century B.C. analgesic advertising tug-of-war. After all, the ancient analgesic market was crowded with headache remedies from leeches to mudpacks to myrtle leaves.

It was in the second century B.C., however, that the Greek physician Hippocrates first observed that a potion made from the bark and leaves of the willow tree could relieve common aches and pains and reduce fever. The pain relieving substance in the willow, salicin, is the ancient ancestor to aspirin, the all-time wonder drug.

As early as 30 A.D., Celsus, a Roman scholar, wrote that chewing the willow bark could relieve pain, redness, heat and swelling. Although scientists continued to rediscover the healing powers of the willow tree throughout the centuries, it was not until the 1820s that salicin was isolated. Ten years later, salicylic acid, a simpler form of salicin, was discovered in the meadowsweet plant (Spirea ulmaria), and synthesized by French chemists.

The price for relief was high: the Europeans who sought pain relief with salicylic acid suffered burning mouths and throats and complained their stomachs were "crawling with ants." Chemists worked to neutralize the substance with sodium salt, but the result, sodium salicylate was still plagued with undesirable side effects.

In the 1890s, Felix Hoffmann, a scientist for the Bayer Division of Germany's I.G. Farben, discovered the effectiveness of small doses of acetylsalicylic acid (ASA), a modified version of salicylic acid, in relieving his father's arthritis pain. The elder Hoffmann had experienced acute stomach pain from the consumption of the prescribed doses of sodium salicylate.

After extensive testing by Heinrich Dreser, the head of Bayer's industrial pharmacological laboratory, ASA became the accepted drug of choice for the treatment of fever, headache, backache, bursitis and the minor pain and stiffness of arthritis.

Bayer patented ASA in 1899, taking the name "aspirin" from the spirea plant. Some scholars claim, however, that aspirin was named for St. Aspirinus, the patron saint of headaches. Soon, world figures from Kafka to Caruso were praising the wonders of aspirin. In 1918, Sterling Products (now Sterling Winthrop Inc.) purchased the U.S. rights to Bayer aspirin. By the 1930s, more than a thousand brands of aspirin were competing for pharmacy shelf space.

Today, Americans take over 20 billion tablets (20 tons) of aspirin a year. From its humble beginnings some 2,500 years ago to the wonder drug of the 20th century, aspirin has become the most widely used drug in the world.

"Rampage" Short Takes

"Rampage" Starring Alex McArthur, Michael Biehn. Written and directed by William Friedkin. Produced by David Salven. Based on the novel by William P. Wood. Rated R.

William Friedkin made his powerful "Rampage," in 1987, and then saw it drift away in a sea of legal entanglements. Oddly, it is probably more likely to hit a raw nerve with its current release date, as no one had heard of Jeffrey Dahmer five years ago.

The grotesque plot centers on a handsome young man (Alex McArthur) who believes he has a blood disease that can only be repaired by drinking human blood. This unsettling disorder is somehow linked to an obsession with the Nazis. Smiling and calm, he has no problem butchering innocent people and drinking their blood.

Though Friedkin had helmed such successful films as "The Exorcist" and "The French Connection," he's also had his share of over-the-top misses, such as "Cruising" and the gruesome "The Guardian." Yet with this film, steeped in the vilest of subject matters, Friedkin brilliantly relied on Alfred Hitchcock's old trick, he left the violence to our imagination.

We see the bullets fired, but never see where they hit. We see the bloody measuring cup, McArthur holding a knife and the body parts he's salvaged. But the actual violence is left up to us and the breeding grounds of our minds.

The movie is not really about the violence in our society, but how we deal with it. Americans do not want to admit that a person could commit such acts and be legally sane. But working all this theory into the film clearly splits it. It's as if we are watching two films, one a violent thriller, the other a serious take on our legal system - moral ramifications intact.

Michael Biehn is the mouth-piece for societal change. A prosecuting attorney who never supported the death penalty, this family man changes his tune when raw destruction hits him in the face. Grappling with his own loss of his young daughter, the anger and disbelief at the death of a young boy by the maniacal McArthur changes his ideas about capital punishment.

The style is stark, at times almost like a documentary, so the focus is very much on the issues. And though Friedkin couldn't easily incorporate his two ideas into one, the film is a successful cry for judicial reform while mesmerizing us with its harsh realities. McArthur is menacing enough to make you squirm and Biehn is equally effective as he tries to suppress his emotions in the face of an emotional deluge. Just keep in mind that this is not for the faint of heart.

Short Takes

"A River Runs Through It" is a bittersweet story of a Montana family that is conveyed with much intimacy and humor, thanks to Robert Redford's sublime direction and the lyrical language of Norman Maclean's autobiographical novella. Humor figures mightily into this mix of family, fly fishing and religion, though at its heart is an honest and poignant tale of acceptance and familial love. Rated PG. ****

Night and the City stars Robert De Niro in this remake of the 1950 film noir about a fast talking loser just desperate to be a success. De Niro may be a standout as the shyster lawyer with a kind streak, but this is a movie looking for a plot. His fascinating performance, and the strong supporting cast including Jessica Lange and Alan King, just isn't enough. Rated R. **1/2

Consenting Adults is another of those movies about a lovely suburban family that turns into a nightmare - both literally and cinematically. Kevin Kline plays the jingle writer whose new best friends turn out to be the neighbors from hell. The script often doesn't jibe and the formulaic plot puts the chills just where we'd expect. Rated R. **

Of Mice and Men director/actor Gary Sinise has put a new spin on this John Steinbeck tale that makes it a classic for the 90s. His thoughtful and emotional adaptation, filmed in muted golds and rich earth tones, makes us painfully aware of the beauty of the California countryside that will never belong to the day laborers who work the land. Fine performances, especially by John Malkovich as the simple-minded Lennie and Ray Walston as an aged farm hand, add to this deeply moving film. Rated PG-13. ***1/2

The Mighty Ducks is extremely formulaic - think of "The Bad News Bears" on ice. But the movie is so relentlessly upbeat you can't help but smile as Emilio Esteves learns about humanity, thanks to a raggedy hockey team he's forced to coach. Not something adults would seek out, but fun if you are going with the kids. Rated PG. **

Glengarry Glen Ross is a verbal ballet from David Mamet that is funny and sparkling in its rough way. Mamet is a genius at word play and his four characters in salesmen hell know what to do with his edgy language. Al Pacino and Jack Lemmon especially help to capture the rhythms, truths and vulgarity of Mamet's 1984 Pulitzer Prize-winner. Rated R. ***

Hero is for people who think Hollywood can't make movies like it used to. This Reunion-era story involves a cynical TV reporter (Geena Davis) who is rescued from a burning plane with 54 other people by the unknown "Angel of Flight 104." Davis learns a lesson in human nature when given two choices - sleaze-bag Dustin Hoffman or generous, honest Andy Garcia. The plot stumbles a bit, but these are memorable characters brought to life with finely tuned performances. Director Stephen Frears has given us a cynical fairy tale that will warm the hardest hearts. Rated PG-13. *** 1/2

Mr. Saturday Night stars writer/director Billy Crystal as an elderly comedian who is forced to look back on his career, and his life - only to find it pretty mediocre. This comedian isn't a loveable character, but he's very human. Crystal has given us an emotional landscape that crosses back and forth from the eagerness of youth to the disappointment that comes 30 years after a career hits its peak. This poignant story is enhanced with plenty of humor and a strong supporting cast. Rated R. ***

Sarafina, based on the Broadway musical, stars Whoopi Goldberg as a strong willed teacher and the charismatic Leleti Khumalo in the title role. A combination of a school girl's dream of stardom and the brutal violence of South Africa, this film is pulled in two opposing directions. The infectious music will send ripples through you, and the dramatic storyline guarantees shivers. But the two elements just don't jibe as well as they did on stage. Rated PG-13. **

The Last of the Mohicans is one of those huge films with lots of magical movie moments. But once you get past all that swelling music, there are some great action scenes. Daniel Day-Lewis plays Nathaniel Poe, renamed from James Fenimore Copper's Natty Bumppo. Day-Lewis is the reason to see this film, as there is much fun to be had watching him shoot his flintlock rifle while running after the enemy. The scenery and battles are fab, even if the whole thing, revised plot included, is a bit too Hollywood. Rated R. ** 1/2

Singles is a fun, if somewhat predictable comedy by writer/director Cameron Crowe ("Fast Times at Ridgemont High"). This Twentysomething paean to love in the 1990s and the Seattle music sound dishes up witty dialogue and intriguing characters. Kyla Sedgwick, Campbell Scott and Bridget Fonda make for an appealing cast. All told, it's a

Burlington High Band to go to Florida

The Burlington High School Band and Squads have been invited to play at the M.G.M. Studio in Florida during April School Vacation.

In order to defer some of the trip's expenses they will be having a Craft Show with 30 professional crafters.

All the proceeds from this Craft Show will go directly to the Burlington High School Band and Squads.

The Craft Show will be held at the American Legion Hall on Winn Street in Burlington on Saturday, November 7th from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Admission is free. Raffle table, coffee, pastry and lunch is available for a small fee.

MICHAEL BIEHN in William Friedkin's "Rampage" opened this week.

funny and clever flick, even if the ending is exactly what we expect. Rated PG-13. ***

Sneakers is one of those Hollywood anomalies -- it is bitingly clever, fast-paced and holds up right through to the end. Robert Redford leads a crew of burglars who work for banks and insurance agencies to make sure security systems are all they should be. But Redford walks into a con that is one smoke bomb and red herring after another. Boisterous good fun. Rated PG-13. *** 1/2

Enchanted April is an engaging look at four unhappy British women in the early 1920s who find peace of mind on an idyllic Italian vacation. This witty and wise movie is about friendship and inner healing. That it is set in a glorious locale, cast with remarkable actors and lovingly directed only adds to the script's charm. Rated PG. ***1/2

"They made the world a little brighter, the old lamplighters of long, long ago." Most readers of this article are too young to remember "gas street lamps" and the "lamplighter" who, every evening at dusk, would walk their appointed rounds reaching up with a long pole and turn the gas jets higher. The soft flickering light would give everyone the feeling of security as they walked the dim-lit by-ways of the city streets.

The only gas street lights in our general area are those on Beacon Hill, in Louisburg Square. People who come from all over the world to visit Boston and its cultural centers are sure to include this quaint, nostalgic section of Boston, a memento of the past, as a tourist attraction.

Some visitors are perhaps trying to find by the light of these gas lamps something that has been lost in our unquenchable thirst for progress. They are perhaps seeking to recapture something that our modern society has shunted aside -- the necessary ingredients for happiness: belief in God; respect for our fellow man; and brotherly love.

Dreaming of the days past does not accomplish anything. We can, however, illuminate our lives by lighting a "candle of love" in our hearts. We will collectively thereby, send forth a "beacon of light" that will pierce the darkness and indeed make the world "a little brighter."

Paul Simon went to an analyst with his problem. "I met this beautiful, blonde bombshell - we get along just fine. We like the same plays, restaurants, books and sports." The analyst looked puzzled saying, "You two seem to be very compatible. I don't see where there's a problem." "Oh yeah?" Paul said, "that's because you don't know her husband!"

My Aunt Nora nearly had a fit shouting, "Chipper, I'll never understand you. First you write a sensible chip like the 'Lamplighters' then you follow it with a stupid, idiotic chip of your friend, Paul. I figure you're about ready for the booby hatch." ...Sign on a church lawn --We welcome all denominations-especially, fives, tens and twenties.

Clerk of Court Bob O'Leary asked Blackie Vega, "Have you anything to offer this court before the judge pronounces sentence?" "No sir, I'm flat broke, my lawyers have taken my last dollar."

Personality Winners - Robert Stanton, Claudia Dardeno, Andrea Gavin, Michael R. Eastman and Maureen Paone, all of North Reading; Nita Beals, Robert Beals, Editor Fred Neilson of the Town Crier and his new bride, Nancy Fitts. A garden expert and friend, Hugh Wiberg and Katie Nichols, all of Wilmington; Jessica Spinazolina, LeRoy Kinzler, Susan Joyce, Diane Rulli and Anna Lalla, all of Tewksbury; Cindy DeMarco, Christopher Finnie, Dipal Patel, Colleen Warshafsky and Flo Savage, all of Saugus; Michelle Ricci, Maureen Murphy, David Lacey, Katie Genovese and A. Michigan, all of Melrose; Paul Condon, Jeffrey O'Connor, Gayle Lerman, Linda Cifuni, George Bianchi and Louis Cibelli, all of Malden; Craig and Casey Halford, William Anderson, Charles J. Lee, Margaret Mullin and Charlie O'Rourke, all of Medford; Robert Martin, David McLaughlin, Larry Ladd, Mike Cole, Susan Duffy Smith and Richard Testa, all of Winchester; Kent Morgan, David Johnson, Daniel Noonan, Joseph O'Neill and Diane Clark, all of Burlington; Kerry Reardon, Kate Greismer, Erin O'Donnell, Arthur Damon, Tony Peralla and Ann O'Donnell, all of Reading.

Also, Karl Lawson, Ron McCauley, Gary Levitt, Kevin McGonigle and James Collins, all of Wakefield; Todd Hanlon, Rita Ahrens, Pam Connolly, Frank and Angela Anzaldi, Rose Allise, all of Stoneham; Tom Supple, Chief Paul Romano, Jimmy and Betty Geary, Michael and Carol McLaughlin and Richie Rebidue, all of Lynnfield; Marilyn McNamara, Ruth Files, Jimmy and Angie Quinno, Ruth Farrey and Mark Rosenblum, all of Woburn.

A panhandler in Burlington asked me for a handout. "Brother," I said to him, "you're in luck. Do you see that man standing there in front of the church? Well, that's Father John Crispo. He is a kind, friendly, charitable man. I'm sure he'll help you out." Ten minutes later the gentleman came back to me and said, "Gee thanks 'brother.' Fr. John sure helped me out - he helped me out of ten dollars for the church building fund."

"Hey Bob Burns, you look like you've been dragged through a keyhole." "Yeah, I know," Bob replied, "I didn't get much sleep last night. I snore so loud it wakes me up." I gave him some "sound" advice saying, "Why don't you try sleeping in another room so you won't hear the snoring?" "Gee, Chipper, why didn't I think of that?"

I asked Mario DiMino of Stoneham, "How come you never married?" Mario smiled and said, "I found out that having a dog is much cheaper. The license costs four dollars and the dog already has a fur coat."

My Aunt Nora always sang this song to her five daughters, "Stay away from the dancing hall, the people there are no good at all, that's where I met your father Bridget darling." Well folks, Aunt Nora couldn't be more wrong. I have found through the years that ballroom dancers, men and women, are among the finest I have ever known and I really mean it!

My friend, George Gould, has been feeling listless and rundown. (He falls asleep watching television.) His wife, Marion, told me that he is the original "couch potato." He went to his doctor for a check up. The medic told him that there wasn't anything really wrong with him but just plain laziness. When the doctor was writing his prescription George said, "Doc, put something in there to 'perk'

"Isn't it Romantic" at Park Playhouse

Isn't an evening filled with laughter just what you need as winter creeps closer and closer? Join the Burlington Players for the contemporary comedy "Isn't it Romantic," playing November 6, 7, 8, 12, 13, 14, 15, 19, 20 and 21 at the Park Playhouse in Burlington. Thursday, Friday and Saturday performances are at 8 p.m. and Sunday's are at 7 p.m. The Park Playhouse is located at 1 Edgemere Avenue, off Winn Street in Burlington. Tickets are $8 ($7.50 for seniors and students) and can be reserved by calling the Box office at (617) 229-2649.

"Isn't it Romantic" looks at Jamie Blumberg and Harriet Cornwall, lifelong friends fresh from graduate school and trips abroad, back in their hometown of New York City to embark on "real life." All they each want is a successful career, a terrific love life and complete independence. When the realities of parents, lovers and life in general intrude on their plans, audiences get a witty, warm, laugh-filled evening's entertainment.

"Romantic" was written by Pulitzer Prize-winning author Wendy Wasserstein and is directed by Karen MacDonald. The accomplished cast includes Lexington resident Shelly Gobeille as Janie and Valerie Martin of Wakefield as Harriet. Burlington's Al Hodder and Helen Murray of Harvard portray Janie's parents, Simon and Tasha Blumberg and Winchester resident Sydelle Pittas plays Harriet's mother, Lillian Cornwall. The men in their lives are Mark Lamourine of Arlington as Marty, Sharon resident Larry Bennett as Paul and Woburn's Bruce Gladstone as Vladimir.

Tickets for "Isn't It Romantic" are on sale now. Call (617) 229-2649 today.

me up." The doctor smiled and said, "You'll find it when you read my bill."

Kathy is happy that she lost weight. "I agree with you dear," I told her, "It's the first time you've seen your feet in ten years." ...Some politicians shouldn't run for office. They should RUN for the border....A successful man is one who can make more money than his wife can spend. A successful woman is one who can FIND such a man.

The best beauty aid a girl can have is a near-sighted boy friend...Wayne Higden of Burlington went to the post office and complained about receiving threatening letters. The Postal Inspector said, "It's against the law to send letters like that. Who has been sending them?" "The electric company, the telephone company and the gas company!"

Jimmy Quinno had a great day on the golf course yesterday. He only fell out of the golf cart once...The reason the Ten Commandments are short, to the point and easily understood is because they were not written by a lawyer...My favorite news broadcaster, Paul Harvey, read and gave me credit for the following on his program nation-wide, "I'll never understand why anyone drives to a stock broker's office in a Rolls Royce, Jaguar or Mercedes to get financial advice from some 'schmoo' who came to work in a bus."

Officer Gerry Gately was sent to investigate a report of a nudist colony in Woburn. He was advised to use extreme caution if a "pinch" was necessary.

Welcome aboard to Maureen O'Connor as a member of the Middlesex East sales staff.

Dreamboats of the week: Michelle Ricci, Melrose; Ann O'Donnell, Reading; Andrea Gavin, North Reading; and Katie Brennan, Wakefield.

Super Stars: John Fogarty, North Reading; Lee Preble, Burlington; Richie Hamel, Winchester; Charlie Mullin, Woburn; and Tom Ciovacco, Malden.
